U. N. To Take Up Palestine Crisis Monday

Soviet Union Seen Backing Mission Plan

American Resolution Asks Hammarskjold To Undertake Survey

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 22 (AP)—The Security Council meets Monday on the Palestine crisis with Russia expected, at least tentatively, to approve a new American-sponsored plan.

It would send Secretary Gen. Dag Hammarskjold on a Middle East peace mission, possibly on April 2.

The Soviet delegation remained officially silent on the stand it will take in the Council but Soviet sources said unofficially they saw nothing wrong with the idea at the moment.

The delegation is awaiting instructions from Moscow.

Diplomatic Moves

Diplomatic moves relating to the Middle East also were reported in Western capitals.

In Washington, it was disclosed French Foreign Mister Christian Pineau has invited Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd to meet him within a few weeks for a discussion of the Middle East situation. There was no immediate American reaction.

In London, the British reported they are able and willing to spearhead a force to meet any suggression in the Middle East.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. put up the Palestine resolution after long talks with Britain and France. It was worded carefully in an effort to obtain Russian agreement so the Council action could be unanimous.

Plan Calls For Survey

The resolution asks Hammarskjold to undertake "as a matter of urgent concern" a survey of enforcement and compliance with the Israeli-Arab armistice agreements and with Council resolutions calling for maintenance of peace.

It suggests Hammarskjold arrange measures to reduce tension —such as withdrawal of forces from the armistice lines, full freedom of movement for U. N. observers and establishment of local arrangements to prevent incidents and detect violations of the armistice agreements.

U. S. Proposes Armed Forces Reduction Plan

LONDON, March 22 (AP) — The United States proposed to Russia today that they both pare down their armed forces to 2½ million men.

Harold E. Stassen laid the plan before the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee. He emphasized that there was one condition: East-West agreement on an effective inspection system.

Deput Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, Russia's delegate, made no comment immediately.

The land, sea and air forces of the United States now total about 2,900,000. The West has figured Russia's armed strength at four million men.

Inspection Plan Followup

It was the second measure put forward by the United States in two days in the world disarmament talks.

Yesterday Stassen, President Eisenhower's personal adviser on disarmament, proposed that upward of 60,000 square miles of U. S. and Soviet territory be opened to arms inspection by the five subcommittee members. These are the United States, Britain, Russia, France and Canada.

Diplomatic informants described the armed forces reduction plan as the first step in any world disarmament program which the United States would be willing to join.

Red China Not Mentioned

The 2½ million figure would be used as a yardstick in reducing military spending.

Other nations, such as France and Britain, would be expected to cut back their manpower proportionately.

No specific mention appeared to have been made of Communist China's forces. The United States recently estimated Red China's army alone at 3½ million plus a 2,000-plane air force.

Administration Opposes Social Security Bill

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — The Eisenhower administration argued today that proposed Social Security changes, especially affecting women and disabled persons, would cost the taxpayers too much.

That was one of several reasons advanced by Security of Welfare Folsome in testimony to the Senate Finance Committee, against a heavily backed bill that would:

1. Provide retirement benefits for women at age 62, instead of 65.

2. Provide cash benefits to the totally disabled at age 50, a new program.

3. Finance these changes with what Folsom described as "an unscheduled 25 per cent increase in Social Security taxes on the wages of the 70 milion workers now contributing to the system."

Folsom said the total tax increase would amount to $1,700,000,000 over the first full year of operation.

"I would not initiate at this time in Old Age And Survivors Insurance further major innovations or broad departures in principle which would increase taxes substantially," he said.

"There is a limit to the tax increase that should be imposed on the people to finance a Social Security program."

France Seeks Western Big 3 Mideast Talks

Foreign Ministers Conference In May At Paris In Offing

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — A Western Big Three foreign ministers meeting on the Middle East crisis is in the offing—probably in early May during the North Atlantic Treaty session at Paris.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said today the department had heard informally from French officials about a suggestion by French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau that such a meeting be held.

Other officials said it appeared likely that Pineau is thinking of a get-together with Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd during the spring ministerial meeting of NATO.

Special Powers For Ike?

White was questioned at his news conference about reports that the Eisenhower administration might ask Congress to authorize the President to take whatever action he sees fit in the Middle East. But White said:

"I have no knowledge of that and therefore no comment."

Officials Cool To Idea

Officials shied away from any suggestion that a similar resolution might be offered regarding the Arab-Israeli dispute in the Middle East. They listed five reasons which they said ruled out any such request:

1. The main reliance of the United States is on the United Nations.

2. Against whom would U.S. react? In the Formosa area, Red China clearly is the enemy.

3. Congressional debate would surely stir up controversy in an election year.

4. Such a debate and even some congressional action probably would freeze the administration's position at a time when it should be flexible.

5. Eisenhower, as he told his news conference yesterday, already has all the authority he needs under the Constitution.

Autherine Lucy To Wed April 22

DALLAS, March 22 (AP)—A Dallas minister said today Miss Autherine Lucy, Negro girl whose entry into the University of Alabama caused campus riots, will be married here April 22.

The Rev. Ernest C. Estell said the 26-year-old Birmingham secretary will be his house guest tonight while planning her marriage to the Rev. H. C. Foster, young ministerial student from Tyler, Tex.

The Rev. Foster, a social science student at Butler College, a Negro school at Tyler, was a classmate of Miss Lucy's in Alabama. He is a practice teacher at a rural Negro school near Tyler as well as a ministerial student.

Mamie Is Deeply Touched By Belated Birthday Party

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower had a birthday party today — delayed more than four months but "one of the most wonderful birthdays I've ever had.

"It certainly did tear my heart strings," she added somewhat ruefully to several hundred women who celebrated with her.

At one point during the nationally televised "To Mamie With Music" luncheon-festival, the First Lady put her forefingers to her eyes to hold back tears that glistened in the spotlight playing on the head table in the Willard Hotel ballroom.

That was when she saw television pictures taken from the Doud family album—Mamie in her graduation frock, her wedding dress and the ball gown she wore at President Eisenhower's inauguration—and heard songs she and Ike had sung in their courting days in San Antonio, Tex.

The luncheon was sponsored by the wives of executives of the federal independent agencies. It had been planned for last November—Mamie was 59 on Nov. 14—but was postponed because of the President's illness.

In the interval the plan grew into something more elaborate and novel—akin to the "Salute to Eisenhower" dinners last January. Entertainment—songs and dances—originated in New York.

On a TV set on the floor in front of her at the table Mrs. Eisenhower watched the show — saw shots of himself watching the show—as the program was televised by CBS and ABC.

Over at the White House, President Eisenhower turned on a television set to see, too.

Rail Passenger Fare Increases Appear Likely

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — Higher railroad passenger fares today appeared likely for the country generally.

A 5 per cent advance was in early prospect for the entire West and the Eastern states north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

The Eastern and Western railroads notified the Interstate Commerce Commission they propose to hike their basic passenger rates effective May 1, employing a short-cut public notice procedure. There was no word from the Southern carriers.

No Commuter Fare Hike

The Eastern and Western railroads in that territory propose a minimum increase of 5 cents per ride in coaches and 20 cents per ride in first-class accommodations, even though these increases might amount to more than the 5 per cent general increase.

The Western carriers said they plan to advance their minimum one-way fare from 15 cents to 25 cents and the round-trip minimum from 30 cents to 50 cents.

Neither territory proposed any change at this time in commutation and suburban fares, which are figured on a separate formula.

ICC Probes Operating Losses

The Eastern and Western statements coincided with a much broader announcement from the ICC itself. It said it is launching a general investigation into the huge operating losses which the railroads have reported from passenger operations since the end of World War II.

The commission said its objective is to reduce and eliminate these continuing deficits, which ran to 670 million dollars in 1954 and possibly more than that last year.

Observers generally agreed that this ICC statement added up to higher train fares in the future.

Adlai Captures Four Of 30 Minnesota Votes

MINNEAPOLIS, March 22 (AP) — Adlai Stevenson emerged today from Minnesota's presidential primary with a consolation prize of four of the state's 30 votes at the Democratic National Convention.

The other 26 went to Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) whose upset victory in the Tuesday test set Democrats to reappraising the preconvention situation.

The last doubtful district, the Northeastern 8th, swung into the Stevenson column when belated reports gave him a margin of 1,554 with only four small precincts to come.

Commerce Budget Cut

Lonardi, Leader Of Revolt Against Peron, Dies At 59

BUENOS AIRES, March 22 (INS) — Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, who led the revolt which overthrew Juan Peron as dictator of Argentina last September, died tonight in a Buenos Aires hospital. He was 59.

Lonardi was hospitalized Wednesday, suffering from a severe attack of influenza. He had returned from Washington earlier in the month, where he had been operated on for an unknown ailment.

Lonardi led the revolt on Peron on Sept. 19, of last year and was chosen two days later to head a new government as provisional president.

Lonardi's reign was short-lived, however, and 50 days after he replaced Peron, he was overthrown in a bloodless coup led by Maj. Gen. Pedro Eugenio Aramburo.

Tunisian Rioting Halted With Tear Gas, Fire Hoses

TUNIS, Tunisia, March 22 (AP) — About 3,000 Tunisian nationalists rioted here today to emphasize demands for quick, complete independence. French security forces broke up the demonstration with fire hoses and tear gas after a 45-minute fight.

Other thousands of Tunisians cheered the moderate nationalist leader, Habib Bourgiba, on his return from Paris with a French pledge of autonomy in which some ties between France and Tunisia will be retained. They gave Bourgiba ovations at the airport and at the palace of the Bey of Tunis, Sidi Mohammed al Amin, to whom he reported.

Months of tension in French North Africa — Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco—were reflected in these varied expressions of feeling.

The rioters were followers of Salah ben Youssef, an exiled extremist who formerly was secretary general of Bourgiba's Neo-Destour (Independence) party. The two men, once good friends, split last fall. Ben Youssef contended Bourgiba's policy of negotiating with the French for concessions bit by bit was too slow.

Ben Youssef's group flew flags of the rebels of neighboring Algeria in a march to the Neo-Destour headquarters. There they ran into a strong force of police and troops, backed by tanks. Several dozen were arrested in the clash. Police seized the rebel flags. No one was reported seriously injured.

Red Police Boss Flies To London In Fast New Jet

LONDON, March 22 (AP) — Ivan Serov, boss of Russia's secret police, flew here today in a fast new Soviet jet airliner to check security arrangements for the forthcoming Bulganin-Khrushchev visit.

Indignant editorials in London newspapers called him a "thug" and "jackal."

But the stocky, tanned Serov, flashing the Kremlin's current "Let's All Be Friends" smile, appeared blithely unaware of the editorial outcry.

Successor to the executed Lavrenty Beria as Soviet security chief, Serov last month was promoted to the rank of general of the army.

The airliner which brought Serov to London is a sweepback-wing jet capable of carrying 50 or 60 passengers. It was given a place of honor on the airport apron but no one was allowed to go aboard.

The plane has only two engine housings, fitted close to the fuselage, but some reports said twin engines were fitted each side.

The rakish aircraft impressed Westerners.

TWU Action Voted In Row Over Layoffs

PITTSBURGH, March 22 (AP) — The Transport Workers Union today voted to strike the Pennsylvania Railroad system March 29 in a dispute over the PRR's layoffs of maintenance workers.

The action was taken at a meeting of presidents of 52 TWU locals representing maintenance workers from New York to St. Louis.

Andrew J. Kaelin, TWU national vice president and coordinator of the railroad division, reported the union met with the company three weeks ago and received a promise the TWU would be notified on any changes the railroad intended to make.

Negotiations Urged

"This they have failed to do," Kaelin said. "They are insisting on laying off employes throughout the entire system."

He said the strike can be averted if the railroad "will sit down" and work the issues out in negotiations.

Kaelin said the TWU will serve the strike notice on the company and the National (Railroad) Mediation Board. Intervention by the board under the Railway Labor Act would postpone any strike 60 days.

Many Work At Altoona

The TWU represents 25,000 nonoperating employes of the railroad. Many work at the PRR's big equipment repair shops in Altoona, Pa. Union members include repairmen and service personnel who are not connected directly with the operation of trains.

The TWU has been engaged in a dispute with the railroad for some time over employe layoffs. It charges that the railroad has reduced maintenance of railroad equipment below the level required for safe operation. The railroad denies this.

Firemen Threaten Railroad Strike

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — The Firemen's Brotherhood today threatened a nationwide railroad strike if the carriers go through with what the union said is a move to abolish firemen's jobs on diesel locomotives.

H.E. Gilbert of Cleveland, president of the union, made public a letter to President Eisenhower saying the union would take "the sternest measures of resistance," including a strike.

The railroads proposed, in new contract negotiations, that they have "unrestricted right to determine when and if a firemen shall be used on other than steam power."

This was reported to be a bargaining counterdemand against union requests for a new $3-per-day wage boost, plus a company-paid health insurance plan.

Ike, Defense Officials In Hush-Hush Meeting

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower will hold a hush-hush White House conference tomorrow with a group of top defense officials, the chief of the Central Intelligence Agency and the undersecretary of state.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced plans for the session today. He declined to say why the meeting is being held.

Daylight Saving Time Will Start In 19 States April 29

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP) — Northeasterners, Nevadans, Californians and some city folk in the Midwest will start getting their extra hour of daylight next month.

But in a large part of the nation, with something more than half its population, the long summer days will be clocked on standard time.

Daylight saving time will be observed in all or parts of 19 states and the District of Columbia this year. April 29 is the starting date in almost all instances.

A majority of the millions who will set their clocks up an hour next month will not turn them back again until the end of October.

More and more states and cities are adopting "fast time" through October instead of ending it in September as they did in the past.

This year daylight saving time will be observed statewide from April 29 to Oct. 28 in all six New England states, New York, New Jersey, and Washington, D.C.

Also planning to continue fast time through October are Virginia towns bordering on the District of Columbia—the rest of the state remaining on standard time; all of Pennsylvania except Harrisburg, which voted to end daylight saving time on Sept. 30; the town of Los Alamos in New Mexico, which will be a fast-time island in a standard time state; and Chicago and most other large cities in Illinois.

The traditional Sept. 30 closing date for daylight saving time will be observed in California and Nevada—the only Western states to adopt fast time; in some cities of Illinois; in Maryland, where fast time will be statewide except for a few rural areas; in St. Louis, the only city in Missouri adopting daylight saving time; and in northeastern cities of Ohio.

Lawyers For Minister Will Appeal Ruling

Negro Churchman Fined $500, Plus $500 Court Costs

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 22 (AP)—The first of the Negro bus boycott leaders, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., was convicted today. Defense attorneys immediately began an appeal that may lead ultimately to the U. S. Supreme Court.

King, 27-year-old pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist church, was fined $500, plus $500 court costs for violation of Alabama's seldom-used antiboycott law for his part in the 17-week-old boycott against segregated city buses.

The fine and costs were converted into a jail sentence since he chose to appeal rather than pay the money. He was sentenced to a total of 386 days.

Notice Of Appeal Served

The sentence was suspended, however, after Negro defense lawyers served notice of appeal. They have said they will take the appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court if the state appellate courts uphold the conviction.

Circuit Judge Eugene Carter, presiding over the trial in the absence of a jury, could have fined King $1,000 and added a six-month jail sentence under the state law.

But he said he decided on a lesser penalty because it was shown in testimony that the minister used his influence throughout the mass bus protest to urge his people to refrain from violence.

Circuit Solicitor William F. Thetford said immediately after the verdict that the state had agreed to postpone the trials of 89 other boycott defendants pending King's appeal.

The 90 Negroes were indicted by a grand jury Feb. 21.

Protest To Continue

In a statement to newsmen, King said the verdict "will not increase or diminish in any way my interest in the protest."

"We will continue with the protest in the same spirit," he continued, "with nonviolence, passive resistance and using the weapon of love."

As he left the courthouse, the minister was cheered by waiting Negroes with shouts of, "Behold the King" and, "Long live the King."

King expressed confidence to reporters that the federal courts will throw out his conviction and hold the Alabama law unconstitutional.

Demos To Insist On Higher Farm Price Supports

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — Democratic leaders in Congress decided today to go all out for higher price supports in the farm bill despite hints of a presidential veto.

They appeared to be encouraged by the big Democratic vote piled up in Tuesday's presidential primary vote in Minnesota. The farm issue is red hot there, though there is an argument between Republicans and Democrats as to how much the issue influenced the voting.

After a talk with House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex), Senate Majority Leader Johnson of Texas announced the Democrats will insist on boosting the price level at which the government now supports basic crops.

Rayburn also declared that House Democrats are "still for 90 per cent of parity and that's what we're going to stand for."

The Eisenhower administration wants to keep the flexible support system under which it is supporting crops at from 75 to 90 per cent of parity, and seek to help the farmers in other ways. Administration leaders contend higher price supports will only result in bigger farm surpluses, and that this will tend to depress market prices further.

Widely differing versions of an election-year farm bill have been passed by the Senate and House. The differences must be ironed out by a Senate-House conference committee.

PRR Income Rises

PHILADELPHIA, March 22 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad today reported its best February since 1953.

The Eastern and Western railroads notified the Interstate Commerce Commission they propose to hike their basic passenger rates effective May 1, employing a short-cut public notice procedure. There was no word from the Southern carriers.

No Commuter Fare Hike

The Eastern and Western railroads in that territory propose a minimum increase of 5 cents per ride in coaches and 20 cents per ride in first-class accommodations, even though these increases might amount to more than the 5 per cent general increase.

The Western carriers said they plan to advance their minimum one-way fare from 15 cents to 25 cents and the round-trip minimum from 30 cents to 50 cents.

Neither territory proposed any change at this time in commutation and suburban fares, which are figured on a separate formula.

ICC Probes Operating Losses

The Eastern and Western statements coincided with a much broader announcement from the ICC itself. It said it is launching a general investigation into the huge operating losses which the railroads have reported from passenger operations since the end of World War II.

The commission said its objective is to reduce and eliminate these continuing deficits, which ran to 670 million dollars in 1954 and possibly more than that last year.

Observers generally agreed that this ICC statement added up to higher train fares in the future.

Adlai Captures Four Of 30 Minnesota Votes

MINNEAPOLIS, March 22 (AP) — Adlai Stevenson emerged today from Minnesota's presidential primary with a consolation prize of four of the state's 30 votes at the Democratic National Convention.

The other 26 went to Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) whose upset victory in the Tuesday test set Democrats to reappraising the preconvention situation.

The last doubtful district, the Northeastern 8th, swung into the Stevenson column when belated reports gave him a margin of 1,554 with only four small precincts to come.

Commerce Budget Cut

Lonardi, Leader Of Revolt Against Peron, Dies At 59

BUENOSAIRES, March 22 (INS) — Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, who led the revolt which overthrew Juan Peron as dictator of Argentina last September, died tonight in a Buenos Aires hospital. He was 59.

Lonardi was hospitalized Wednesday, suffering from a severe attack of influenza. He had returned from Washington earlier in the month, where he had been operated on for an unknown ailment.

Lonardi led the revolt on Peron on Sept. 19, of last year and was chosen two days later to head a new government as provisional president.

Lonardi's reign was short-lived, however, and 50 days after he replaced Peron, he was overthrown in a bloodless coup led by Maj. Gen. Pedro Eugenio Aramburo.

Tunisian Rioting Halted With Tear Gas, Fire Hoses

TUNIS, Tunisia, March 22 (AP) — About 3,000 Tunisian nationalists rioted here today to emphasize demands for quick, complete independence. French security forces broke up the demonstration with fire hoses and tear gas after a 45-minute fight.

Other thousands of Tunisians cheered the moderate nationalist leader, Habib Bourgiba, on his return from Paris with a French pledge of autonomy in which some ties between France and Tunisia will be retained. They gave Bourgiba ovations at the airport and at the palace of the Bey of Tunis, Sidi Mohammed al Amin, to whom he reported.

Months of tension in French North Africa — Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco—were reflected in these varied expressions of feeling.

The rioters were followers of Salah ben Youssef, an exiled extremist who formerly was secretary general of Bourgiba's Neo-Destour (Independence) party. The two men, once good friends, split last fall. Ben Youssef contended Bourgiba's policy of negotiating with the French for concessions bit by bit was too slow.

Ben Youssef's group flew flags of the rebels of neighboring Algeria in a march to the Neo-Destour headquarters. There they ran into a strong force of police and troops, backed by tanks. Several dozen were arrested in the clash. Police seized the rebel flags. No one was reported seriously injured.

TWU Action Voted In Row Over Layoffs

PITTSBURGH, March 22 (AP) — The Transport Workers Union today voted to strike the Pennsylvania Railroad system March 29 in a dispute over the PRR's layoffs of maintenance workers.

The action was taken at a meeting of presidents of 52 TWU locals representing maintenance workers from New York to St. Louis.

Andrew J. Kaelin, TWU national vice president and coordinator of the railroad division, reported the union met with the company three weeks ago and received a promise the TWU would be notified on any changes the railroad intended to make.

Negotiations Urged

"This they have failed to do," Kaelin said. "They are insisting on laying off employes throughout the entire system."

He said the strike can be averted if the railroad "will sit down" and work the issues out in negotiations.

Kaelin said the TWU will serve the strike notice on the company and the National (Railroad) Mediation Board. Intervention by the board under the Railway Labor Act would postpone any strike 60 days.

Many Work At Altoona

The TWU represents 25,000 nonoperating employes of the railroad. Many work at the PRR's big equipment repair shops in Altoona, Pa. Union members include repairmen and service personnel who are not connected directly with the operation of trains.

The TWU has been engaged in a dispute with the railroad for some time over employe layoffs. It charges that the railroad has reduced maintenance of railroad equipment below the level required for safe operation. The railroad denies this.

Red Police Boss Flies To London In Fast New Jet

LONDON, March 22 (AP) — Ivan Serov, boss of Russia's secret police, flew here today in a fast new Soviet jet airliner to check security arrangements for the forthcoming Bulganin-Khrushchev visit.

Indignant editorials in London newspapers called him a "thug" and "jackal."

But the stocky, tanned Serov, flashing the Kremlin's current "Let's All Be Friends" smile, appeared blithely unaware of the editorial outcry.

Successor to the executed Lavrenty Beria as Soviet security chief, Serov last month was promoted to the rank of general of the army.

The airliner which brought Serov to London is a sweepback-wing jet capable of carrying 50 or 60 passengers. It was given a place of honor on the airport apron but no one was allowed to go aboard.

The plane has only two engine housings, fitted close to the fuselage, but some reports said twin engines were fitted each side.

The rakish aircraft impressed Westerners.

Mikoyan In Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan, March 22 (AP)—Soviet Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan arrived here today to represent his country at "Republic Day" celebrations in Pakistan.

After a four-day stay he will leave for India and Communist China.

Firemen Threaten Railroad Strike

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — The Firemen's Brotherhood today threatened a nationwide railroad strike if the carriers go through with what the union said is a move to abolish firemen's jobs on diesel locomotives.

H.E. Gilbert of Cleveland, president of the union, made public a letter to President Eisenhower saying the union would take "the sternest measures of resistance," including a strike.

The railroads proposed, in new contract negotiations, that they have "unrestricted right to determine when and if a firemen shall be used on other than steam power."

This was reported to be a bargaining counterdemand against union requests for a new $3-per-day wage boost, plus a company-paid health insurance plan.

Ike, Defense Officials In Hush-Hush Meeting

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower will hold a hush-hush White House conference tomorrow with a group of top defense officials, the chief of the Central Intelligence Agency and the undersecretary of state.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced plans for the session today. He declined to say why the meeting is being held.

Daylight Saving Time Will Start In 19 States April 29

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP) — Northeasterners, Nevadans, Californians and some city folk in the Midwest will start getting their extra hour of daylight next month.

But in a large part of the nation, with something more than half its population, the long summer days will be clocked on standard time.

Daylight saving time will be observed in all or parts of 19 states and the District of Columbia this year. April 29 is the starting date in almost all instances.

A majority of the millions who will set their clocks up an hour next month will not turn them back again until the end of October.

More and more states and cities are adopting "fast time" through October instead of ending it in September as they did in the past.

This year daylight saving time will be observed statewide from April 29 to Oct. 28 in all six New England states, New York, New Jersey, and Washington, D.C.

Also planning to continue fast time through October are Virginia towns bordering on the District of Columbia—the rest of the state remaining on standard time; all of Pennsylvania except Harrisburg, which voted to end daylight saving time on Sept. 30; the town of Los Alamos in New Mexico, which will be a fast-time island in a standard time state; and Chicago and most other large cities in Illinois.

The traditional Sept. 30 closing date for daylight saving time will be observed in California and Nevada—the only Western states to adopt fast time; in some cities of Illinois; in Maryland, where fast time will be statewide except for a few rural areas; in St. Louis, the only city in Missouri adopting daylight saving time; and in northeastern cities of Ohio.

Lawyers For Minister Will Appeal Ruling

Negro Churchman Fined $500, Plus $500 Court Costs

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 22 (AP)—The first of the Negro bus boycott leaders, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., was convicted today. Defense attorneys immediately began an appeal that may lead ultimately to the U. S. Supreme Court.

King, 27-year-old pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist church, was fined $500, plus $500 court costs for violation of Alabama's seldom-used antiboycott law for his part in the 17-week-old boycott against segregated city buses.

The fine and costs were converted into a jail sentence since he chose to appeal rather than pay the money. He was sentenced to a total of 386 days.

Notice Of Appeal Served

The sentence was suspended, however, after Negro defense lawyers served notice of appeal. They have said they will take the appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court if the state appellate courts uphold the conviction.

Circuit Judge Eugene Carter, presiding over the trial in the absence of a jury, could have fined King $1,000 and added a six-month jail sentence under the state law.

But he said he decided on a lesser penalty because it was shown in testimony that the minister used his influence throughout the mass bus protest to urge his people to refrain from violence.

Circuit Solicitor William F. Thetford said immediately after the verdict that the state had agreed to postpone the trials of 89 other boycott defendants pending King's appeal.

The 90 Negroes were indicted by a grand jury Feb. 21.

Protest To Continue

In a statement to newsmen, King said the verdict "will not increase or diminish in any way my interest in the protest."

"We will continue with the protest in the same spirit," he continued, "with nonviolence, passive resistance and using the weapon of love."

As he left the courthouse, the minister was cheered by waiting Negroes with shouts of, "Behold the King" and, "Long live the King."

King expressed confidence to reporters that the federal courts will throw out his conviction and hold the Alabama law unconstitutional.

Demos To Insist On Higher Farm Price Supports

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — Democratic leaders in Congress decided today to go all out for higher price supports in the farm bill despite hints of a presidential veto.

They appeared to be encouraged by the big Democratic vote piled up in Tuesday's presidential primary vote in Minnesota. The farm issue is red hot there, though there is an argument between Republicans and Democrats as to how much the issue influenced the voting.

After a talk with House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex), Senate Majority Leader Johnson of Texas announced the Democrats will insist on boosting the price level at which the government now supports basic crops.

Rayburn also declared that House Democrats are "still for 90 per cent of parity and that's what we're going to stand for."

The Eisenhower administration wants to keep the flexible support system under which it is supporting crops at from 75 to 90 per cent of parity, and seek to help the farmers in other ways. Administration leaders contend higher price supports will only result in bigger farm surpluses, and that this will tend to depress market prices further.

Widely differing versions of an election-year farm bill have been passed by the Senate and House. The differences must be ironed out by a Senate-House conference committee.

PRR Income Rises

PHILADELPHIA, March 22 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad today reported its best February since 1953.

The PRR reported net income of $1,522,974, equal to 12 cents a share, compared with net income of $1,314,493 and 10 cents in February, 1955.

Mansfield Criticizes Ike Foreign Aid Plan

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) challenged the administration today to produce "new and better ways to meet the Soviet threat" than the foreign aid program presented by President Eisenhower Monday.

Mansfield lashed out at this program as sadly lacking in "positive, constructive suggestions and "more of the same old medicine" as Secretary of Dulles began a rapid round of conferences in defense of administration policies.

Dulles, who returned last night from a 19-day tour of 10 Asiatic countries, will follow up his reports to Washington officials with a radio-TV broadcast to the American people at 10:30 p.m. EST tomorrow night.

The secretary gave congressional leaders of both parties what they later described as a temperately optimistic view of conditions in the Far East, combining some improvements over the past with prospects of trouble ahead.

Administration planning got a big boost from Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, commander of NATO forces in Europe, who said he is "absolutely certain that we shall prevent a third world war" if this country continues to furnish "dynamic leadership," and if the North Atlantic Treaty Organization retains its unity.

Gruenther appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which is now considering Eisenhower's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid program for the 12 months starting July 1.

He was followed at an afternoon closed-door session by Dulles, who reported privately to the National Security Council after briefing 22 congressional leaders at a White House meeting with Eisenhower.

Tomorrow Dulles will describe his trip at the regular Friday Cabinet meeting and then will go before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before appearing on a nationwide broadcast.

Senate and House leaders who sat in on today's White House briefing generally agreed that Dulles had presented what House Republican Leader Martin described as a "mildly optimistic" report.

Tax Chief Bans Quota System

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Russell C. Harrington, the new commissioner of internal revenue, has abolished a work quota system imposed on personnel some three years ago, it was learned today.

T. Coleman Andrews, former commissioner succeeded by Harrington last November, put the quota system into effect. Tax agents and collectors were required to process a fixed number of cases or face action which could have cost them their jobs.

Tax agents complained that wide differences in the complexity of different tax cases made it impractical to expect them to meet a fixed quota.

Harrington visited the Atlanta revenue office last Tuesday, March 20. He was reported to have told employes that he "dislikes" the use of the word "quota" in connection with output at revenue offices, especially where the quota is established by national headquarters in Washington.

Steel Industry Needs Price Hike, Weir Says

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP) — Ernest T. Weir, president of National Steel Corp., said today that the steel industry needs a "material" increase in its selling prices, and that the so-called "independent" steel companies should take the lead in bringing this about.

Weir, long a champion of higher steel prices, made his plea in a talk to the New York Society of Security Analysts. He said a price increase is "the one answer" to the problem of financing the industry's expansion.

State's Seizure Law Gets Court Test On April 4

BALTIMORE, March 22 (AP) — Maryland's new utilities seizure law which got buses and streetcars rolling again after a 39-day strike will be tested in court April 4.

Union officials said if the law is tossed out it could lead to the resumption of the strike. The Baltimore Transit Co. has asked the federal court to upset the law.

The company contends the law is unconstitutional. It also said it is denied its rights under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The BTC action came after Gov. McKeldin invoked the arbitration section of the seizure law. This gives him the power to send the dispute to arbitration after normal negotiations break down.

The union complied with the order to name an arbiter. The company declined. Instead today it started proceedings seeking an injunction to block arbitration and to invalidate the seizure law.

Judge Roszel Thomsen gave Gov. McKeldin and two other state officials until next Thursday to answer the company's suit.

He set April 4th as the date when a three-judge court would hear arguments on the seizure law.

He also granted the union permission to intervene.

Maryland To Insist On Fishway At Dam

ANNAPOLIS, March 22 (AP) — Maryland "will be compelled to initiate legal proceedings" against the U. S. Corps of Engineers unless a fish ladder is constructed at Little Falls Dam in the Potomac, Gov. McKeldin told the secretary of the Army today.

He said in a letter to Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker that the engineers have "steadfastly refused" to comply with a State demand that the dam now under construction include a ladder to permit migratory fish to go to and from spawning grounds.

The fishway has been a bone of contention between Maryland, which owns the river, and Army Engineers since plans for the dam were drawn in 1951.

Borgnine, who is of Italian descent, called Miss Magnani from Hollywood. She chatted with him from her penthouse apartment in an old Roman palace.

"This is the greatest and most important day in my life, both as a woman and as an artist," Miss Magnani told reporters during the day.

Victory Spurs Kefauver Swing

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22 (AP) —Sen. Estes Kefauver, assessing his Minnesota primary victory over Adlai Stevenson, said today, "I think there should be some reconsideration going on in the Democratic side."

The Tennessee Democrat told a press conference there already was evidence of such reconsideration. Offers and pledges of support came to him yesterday in Montana from many Democrats previously neutral or even supporting others, he said.

F. Joseph Donohue, his national campaign chairman, reports similar actions over the country, Kefauver declared.

"These people hadn't been for me because they didn't think I could win in the Minnesota primary. Well, I won, and now—this is what is happening."

Dutch Are 'Shocked' By Dulles' Statement

THE HAGUE, March 22 (AP) — Foreign Minister Joseph Luns told Parliament today the Dutch government is "shocked and disappointed" at U.S. Secretary of State Dulles' public statements during his recent visit to Jakarta.

Replying to questions put by Carol Romme, floor leader of the Catholic People's party, Luns said Dulles publicly stated in Jakarta that he was impressed by the "wonderful patriotism" of the Indonesians and their leaders' "wisdom" and also refused at a news conference to comment on the trial in Jakarta of I. N. H. Jungschlaeger, a former Dutch security chief in Indonesia, who is charged with subversion.

Maryland Has Fastest Growing PTA Group

BALTIMORE, March 22 (AP)—The Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers is growing more rapidly in membership than any other PTA in the nation, the organization's state membership chairman said today.

Mrs. Paul L. Brown, speaking at the closing meeting of a three-day board of managers get-together here, said membership of the state PTA group is now 142,000, a gain of 24,000 over last year.

She said the growth is even faster than in 1955, when, with an increase of 17,000 members over the preceding year, the Maryland PTA also topped the nation in rate of increase.

More Workers Back On Job At Westinghouse

PITTSBURGH, March 22 (AP) — Increasing numbers of Westinghouse Electric Corp. workers returned to their jobs today in the wake of a 156-day strike as the company renewed efforts to settle a strike of 10,500 workers.

Top negotiators for the big electrical appliance firm met with the United Electrical Workers Union (Ind.) for the first time since March 9. No report of progress was made in the 149-day strike with this union but another negotiating session was called tomorrow.

The Sharon (Pa.) local of the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers ignored an agreement by its international officers which ended this week the strike of some 44,000 Westinghouse employes.

However, after Westinghouse threatened to fire all of the 6,500 Sharon workers who did not report within 10 days, picket lines were removed this afternoon. Some employes went into the big transformer plant.

Demos' Chief Lashes Out At Eisenhower

SALISBURY, Md., March 22 (AP) —Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said tonight communism has gained new footholds under the Eisenhower administration "because foreign policy is not a matter that can be worked out on a part-time basis."

Butler, in an address prepared for a Jefferson-Jackson dinner, said a successful foreign policy "requires a full-time president — willing to assume full-time leadership and full-time responsibility."

While President Eisenhower has sharply criticized Democratic policy of containing communism and checking its expansion," Butler said, "we now find this administration has not even succeeded in containing communism."

To illustrate, he said communism "has been allowed to take over in Viet Nam" and is "creeping into the Middle East."

Butler said there has been no leadership from President Eisenhower on pressing world problems. He added the same "lack of leadership" has been shown on such domestic problems as school aid, public housing and health needs.

Saying it requires more than military courage to take actions that may lose some votes, Butler said Eisenhower "has never been willing to take that risk in his political life."

He went on to say that this country "cannot afford to run a popularity contest in the White House by electing a Republican who would rather be popular than president."

Mindful of bitter Democratic primary battles in Maryland in the past, Butler urged the State party to conduct its next primary so that no unhealable wounds are left.

In the audience as Butler spoke were George P. Mahoney and Millard E. Tydings, major contestants in the senatorial primary. Mahoney was a principal in three previous primaries which left such wounds, but both he and Tydings have refrained from personal references thus far in this campaign, each discussing only national or global issues.

Maryland Has Fastest Growing PTA Group

BALTIMORE, March 22 (AP)—The Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers is growing more rapidly in membership than any other PTA in the nation, the organization's state membership chairman said today.

Mrs. Paul L. Brown, speaking at the closing meeting of a three-day board of managers get-together here, said membership of the state PTA group is now 142,000, a gain of 24,000 over last year.

She said the growth is even faster than in 1955, when, with an increase of 17,000 members over the preceding year, the Maryland PTA also topped the nation in rate of increase.

More Workers Back On Job At Westinghouse

PITTSBURGH, March 22 (AP) — Increasing numbers of Westinghouse Electric Corp. workers returned to their jobs today in the wake of a 156-day strike as the company renewed efforts to settle a strike of 10,500 workers.

Top negotiators for the big electrical appliance firm met with the United Electrical Workers Union (Ind.) for the first time since March 9. No report of progress was made in the 149-day strike with this union but another negotiating session was called tomorrow.

The Sharon (Pa.) local of the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers ignored an agreement by its international officers which ended this week the strike of some 44,000 Westinghouse employes.

However, after Westinghouse threatened to fire all of the 6,500 Sharon workers who did not report within 10 days, picket lines were removed this afternoon. Some employes went into the big transformer plant.

Demos' Chief Lashes Out At Eisenhower

SALISBURY, Md., March 22 (AP) —Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said tonight communism has gained new footholds under the Eisenhower administration "because foreign policy is not a matter that can be worked out on a part-time basis."

Butler, in an address prepared for a Jefferson-Jackson dinner, said a successful foreign policy "requires a full-time president — willing to assume full-time leadership and full-time responsibility."

While President Eisenhower has sharply criticized Democratic policy of containing communism and checking its expansion," Butler said, "we now find this administration has not even succeeded in containing communism."

To illustrate, he said communism "has been allowed to take over in Viet Nam" and is "creeping into the Middle East."

Butler said there has been no leadership from President Eisenhower on pressing world problems. He added the same "lack of leadership" has been shown on such domestic problems as school aid, public housing and health needs.

Saying it requires more than military courage to take actions that may lose some votes, Butler said Eisenhower "has never been willing to take that risk in his political life."

He went on to say that this country "cannot afford to run a popularity contest in the White House by electing a Republican who would rather be popular than president."

Mindful of bitter Democratic primary battles in Maryland in the past, Butler urged the State party to conduct its next primary so that no unhealable wounds are left.

In the audience as Butler spoke were George P. Mahoney and Millard E. Tydings, major contestants in the senatorial primary. Mahoney was a principal in three previous primaries which left such wounds, but both he and Tydings have refrained from personal references thus far in this campaign, each discussing only national or global issues.

Business Of Renting Out Stenographers Booms In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — Since at least three copies are made of everything written in this town, it well may be the stenographic capital of the world. So it's not surprising that stenographer renting should go over big here.

"Oh, dear, we're just screaming for more help," Mrs. Frances Burnett, the stenographer renter, said today. "It's terrific. Our service has met a very real need.

"It's ideal for the man whose stenographer has to have pregnancy leave, or is ill, or for vacations."

And what type of business goes in for stenographer renting?

"Oh, good gravy!" Mrs. Burnett said. "Everybody. Legal offices, associations. You name a business, and they've had our girls."

Mrs. Burnett said the public stenographer long has been with us, but that normally the work is taken to her office. A couple of years ago in Detroit a man named Russell Kelly had a big idea: Why not have a trained force from stenographers to clerks who can't even type, ready to go to the office that needs help?

"That man," said Mrs. B., who manages the local office, "is a genius."

Well, the Russell Kelly Office Service has spread to more than a half hundred cities, competition has sprung up, and this may be the hottest idea in stenographic circles since the invention of carbon paper.

Mrs. Burnett said another attraction of the plan is that many girls don't want steady work. Among these are the wives of servicemen who soon may be transferred, the girl who has a good job coming up before long but wants to do something while she waits, housewives who would like to work about two weeks out of four.

Havre De Grace Banker Accused In $7,300 Theft

BALTIMORE, March 22 (AP) — The FBI said today a 53-year-old Havre de Grace banker who recently bought a hotel has been arrested and charged with embezzling $7,300 of bank funds.

He was identified as Thomas F. O'Connor, assistant treasurer in the Havre de Grace Banking and Trust Co. O'Connor recently purchased the Chesapeake Hotel where he has been living, according to reports from Havre de Grace.

The former owner of the hotel was listed as Miss Agnes Bollinger.

O'Connor had been employed by the bank for about five years. He was arrested last night and arraigned at Aberdeen before U. S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart. He posted bond of $3,500 and was freed. No date has been set for trial.

$43,000,000 In State Income Tax Collected

BALTIMORE, March 22 (AP) — Maryland has collected about $43,000,000 State income taxes due thus far—little more than half what it expects to take in by April 16.

Income tax officials estimated today that a "normal year" will produce about $65,000,000. But this year, taxpayers also must ante up in a lump sum for the first half of 1955.

Withholding took care of the last half of 1955 and part of 1956.

Returns are expected from about 700,000 Marylanders, a boost of some 60,000 over last year. The State income tax is Maryland's biggest single source of revenue

150 Arrested At Stag Party Protest As Trial Delayed

BALTIMORE, March 22 (AP)—The decision to postpone trial of 150 men arrested at a girlie show-stag party last night was greeted in Police Court with roars of protests from the defendants.

Magistrate Henry L. Rogers put off the bulky task of trying the men on charges of disorderly conduct until next Thursday.

The men were trapped last night on the third floor of a hall where a "bull roast" had been advertised. Five persons, including a woman who was naked when police arrived, were charged with keeping a disorderly house.

Additional charges of operating a gambling device, possessing lewd motion pictures and performing an indecent act were filed against some of the five.

The men picked up in the raid were all free on collateral of $51.45.

The arrested performer, who police said was without clothing was identified as Miss Nancy Ford, 23.

Police said she was taking part in an indecent performance on a make-shift stage in the center of the room while an obscene sound movie was going on at the same time at another end of the hall.

Those besides Miss Ford charged with disorderly conduct were Joseph Hendler, 21, Stanley Glazer, 29, Charles E. Arrenberg, 28, Washington, D. C., store manager, and Sol Ikin. All but Arrenberg are of Baltimore.

Glazer drew the indecent movie charge, and Arrenberg the gambling charge. Miss Ford was charged with leading a lewd life and giving an indecent performance.

Appeals Court Ruling On SRC Suit Awaited

ANNAPOLIS, March 22 (AP)—The Court of Appeals is expected to decide April 3 whether to review a Montgomery County case involving a suit by the State Roads Commission against John B. and Dorothy Hudson of Hyattsville.

The suit, claiming the Hudsons made false statements in selling the SRC a tract of land for $26,500, was dismissed in Montgomery Circuit Court.

The SRC appealed and A. Slater Clarke, attorney for the Hudsons, has asked the high court to dismiss the appeal. He contended it involves a deposition by Ben DuPre, former SRC rights-of-way engineer, who since has admitted he "falsely reported" negotiations with the Hudsons.

Joseph D. Buscher, assistant attorney general assigned to the State Roads Commission, told the Court of Appeals officials today he will file a counter motion. He indicated he also would file a petition asking that the case be remanded to Montgomery County for further proceedings.

The suit, claiming the Hudsons made false statements in selling the SRC a tract of land for $26,500, was dismissed in Montgomery Circuit Court.

The SRC appealed and A. Slater Clarke, attorney for the Hudsons, has asked the high court to dismiss the appeal. He contended it involves a deposition by Ben DuPre, former SRC rights-of-way engineer, who since has admitted he "falsely reported" negotiations with the Hudsons.

Joseph D. Buscher, assistant attorney general assigned to the State Roads Commission, told the Court of Appeals officials today he will file a counter motion. He indicated he also would file a petition asking that the case be remanded to Montgomery County for further proceedings.

Back Interest

The grand entrance can no longer be more impressive than the grand exit, for fashion is turning her pretty back on us. Back interest in spring clothes is having a whirl the likes of which hasn't been seen since the era of the bustle.

From casual to formal, from suits to Empire or Regency sheaths, it is evident that designers have concentrated on the rear view. Boxy suit jackets have perky bows on their short hipline hems, and late day dresses have side hip pouffs or skirts that sweep backward in fullness.

High-placed sashes gird small waistlines and underscore the directoire bustlines ending in back bows or flowing streamers. Uneven hemlines dip in back. In fact, so many trims and "signatures" of the season add back talk that a woman will have to think of banishing her figure bustles if she's too big from the hips down. Every ounce of excess weight will show in this season's fashions.

SLAM DEPARTMENT WEAK

FOR many years the Bridge World magazine has pointed out that the weakest "department" of American experts is slam-bidding, and if the recent Vanderbilt Tournament can be taken as a criterion, that criticism is still valid. The final round of that blue-ribbon team-of-four event saw strange and discreditable happenings in connection with this deal:

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ K J 9 5 ♥ 8 5 3 ♦ 7 4 2 ♣ A 9 4
♠ 10 7 2 ♥ 4 ♦ 9 6 5 3 ♣ K Q J 8 2	N W E S	♠ Q 8 4 3 ♥ J 10 7 ♦ A 8 ♣ 10 6 5 3
	♠ A 6 ♥ A K Q 9 6 2 ♦ K Q J 10 ♣ 7

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 N T	Pass
4 N T	Pass	5 ♣	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Actually, the failure to reach slam here was a shade more excusable than at the other table, because this North was simply the victim of an abberation. In the tension (or something) he got mixed up on the scale of answers to the Blackwood Convention, and responded with five clubs, thinking he was showing an ace, when in fact, of course, he was announcing "no ace." Granted, it is a reasonable observation that finalists in a national tournament should not be subject to brainstorms, but such things happen.

In the other room the numerous spectators were shocked by this maladroit performance:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	2 N T	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

This North-South pair were using the artificial two-club opening as the forcing bid, and in this method, since a two-diamond response (also artificial) is negative, showing less than 1½ tricks, North's actual two-notrump response announced a fairish hand. South then showed his real suit, hearts, and North specified in turn that he had spade strength. But all of these exchanges came to naught, including North's eventual heart raise to the five-level, because, on the one side, South never did learn definitely that his partner had an ace, and North wasn't sure that there were enough winners in the combined hands.

One of two things is obvious: South should have used the Blackwood, or—much better—North should have cue-bid five clubs instead of making the vague five-heart bid.

About $41,000,000 in compensation is going unclaimed because thousands of victims of overseas war losses have failed to ask for settlements.

Perhaps some of those persons are Marylanders.

Therefore, at the request of the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission of the United States, I am trying this week to help contact as many persons as possible who might be entitled to compensation for property losses, etc., suffered at the hands of certain nations.

First Deadline Near

The legislation under which reimbursement can be sought is Public Law 285, of the 84th Congress.

According to the law, there are two important deadlines for prospective claimants to keep in mind. The first is March 31 of this year. By that date claims must be filed by all those who suffered losses in the Soviet Union prior to November 16,1933.

The second filing deadline is this coming September 30. This date, according to the Settlement Commission, pertains to that portion of the law dealing with World War II claims against Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania, and against Italy in respect to losses not provided for in the Italian Peace Treaty.

Eligible Claimants

The Settlement Commission has this to say about who can apply for compensation.

"Eligible claimants, under the law, generally are restricted to Americans who were citizens of the United States at the time their losses occurred.

"In the case of corporations it is required that more than 50 per cent of the stock ownership must be vested in American citizens at the time of the loss.

"At the same time, the corporation must have been organized under the laws of the United States, any state or territory thereof, or the District of Columbia."

I agree with Whitney Gillilland, chairman of the Settlement Commission, that "it would be a pity if the people for whose benefit this money was made available (through the efforts of the Congress) should be left holding an empty bag."

Offer Malenkov Asylum

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—Rep. Hillings (R-Calif) suggested today that the United States grant asylum to former Russian Premier Georgi Malenkov "if he will denounce communism."

"He was Stalin's handpicked successor and should be reminded of what happened to Beria," Hillings said. "The same fate might befall him if he returns to Moscow now."

Md. Group Urges All Children Get Two Polio Shots

BALTIMORE, March 22 (AP) — A joint technical advisory committee on polio recommended today that two Salk vaccine shots be given to "as many children as possible" this year.

The joint committee from the Baltimore and State Health Departments added, however, that due to a shortage of vaccine, the third, or booster, shot be postponed until further notice.

Adequate supplies of the vaccine are not expected to be available in Maryland until July, the committee added.

The committee statement:

"The Technical Advisory Committee considered today the most effective way to use poliomyelitis vaccine now available and currently anticipated, in order to prevent paralytic polioyelitis this summer.

"On the basis of experience last year, the committee recommends that at least one and preferably two doses be given not less than one month apart to as many children as possible in the eligible age group 1 to 15 years of age.

"During the period of continuing shortage of the vaccine, it is strongly recommended that the booster, or third, inoculation be postponed until further notice.

"Adequate supplies of the vaccine are not expected until July."

NEW YORK, March 22 (INS)—A group of us mushed through the snow and slush to the Memorial Press Center the other day to see a film about a sled, made by the Coleman Engineering people of Los Angeles. That sounds dull enough. Wot? Well, this sled can travel 1,600 miles an hour. Our Olympic team should have had it at Cortina.

It's a rocket sled in which the Air Force is studying supersonic survival. Our new series of operational jet interceptors, beginning with North America's F-100 fly faster than the speed of sound in level flight. There is some reason to believe that Lockheed's F-104, which will be unveiled to the press April 16, can fly at almost twice that speed. It's wingspread is said to be only eight feet.

All of which brings up the question of pilot survival in case of a bailout. One Air Force medico has undergone sled speed of more than 600 MPH. A North American test pilot miraculously lived after bailing out at 777 MPH. Each has made air medical history. The colonel of the sled took 36 "G's," which means that a weight 36 times as great as his own pressed against his surface and innards at the climax of the run.

The test pilot somenow lived through more than 40 "G's." And we're just beginning now to go really fast.

The human cocoon seems to be the answer. The man who must leave his ship and hit the invisible steel wall of the air cannot be counted upon to live to tell the wife and kiddies unless he goes out encased in some shell that will slow down his speed to a moderate few hundred miles an hour, at which point he can safely pull his ripcord.

The most important studies in this unearthly field of research are being done with sleds such as the one we saw in action, on film, at the press club. Operation Smart, as this particular testing area and its work is known, is located on top of Hurricane Mesa in Southwestern Utah. The flattish crest of what looks from the air like a big aircraft carrier (the mesa rises almost perpendicularly 1,500 feet above the valley of the Badlands) is now featured by a two-mile straightaway rail-track that ends on the brink of a dizzy drop into the craggy land below.

The sled, a simple box-like device with rockets squirting out the rear, uses steel clamps that fit over the bulge of the glistening, welded rails. No grease is used.

The engineers have found that at great speed the friction disappears and the sled appears to float on a semi-microscopic layer of air. Technicians and engineers along the run of track are protected by bunkers. There is an ear-splitting boom! when the sled bursts thorugh the sonic barrier. Inside the box is a lifelike dummy who is shot up and out as the sled nears the brink.

It is flung hundreds of feet into space, while attached instruments give off dozens of readings on speed, pressures, heat and the like. A parachute lowers the dummy and its precious instruments to the rough earth below. The whole thing cost $2 million, but so does a single fighter.

How are the brakes on your car? Fine! But listen to this: The Coleman sled, and I suppose this is true of the others in operation, makes safe stops comparable to stopping within eight feet by a standard passenger car making 100 MPH. Sleds are stopped by several means, none of them familiar to the motorist. A scoop will just down into a water trench, turn 180 degrees, and stop a projectile on what amounts to a dime. Reverse rockets, squirting forward, will do the same job.

I'm glad I didn't take my kids along. That flexible flyer and the little knoll in Central Park would have seemed pretty tame to them by now.

Local Man Receives Suspended Sentence

Chief Judge George Henderson yesterday in Circuit Court gave a 22-year-old man a three-year suspended sentence to the Maryland State Reformatory for Males on a charge of stealing an automobile.

The man, Junior Lee, 100 Roberts Street, was charged with stealing a car February 22 from the Glen Roy Oldsmobile Sales and Service and driving it to a point near Red House in Garrett County. The machine was found demolished the next day.

Judge Henderson found Lee guilty last Saturday but withheld sentence until an investigation into Lee's background by David M. Steele, state parole officer.

Lee was ordered to pay the Glen Roy firm $150 for the damaged car, be of good behavior and return to his former home in Rowlesburg and stay out of Maryland.

Fort Hill, Beall Share Play Honors

Fort Hill and Beall high schools shared top honors in a play tournament for the western division of the Maryland Dramatic Festival Wednesday at Frostburg.

Also taking part were Clear Spring, Southern, Northern and St. Peter's of Westernport. The winners wil compete April 6 at College Park with leaders from two other divisions in the state.

The famous "slow march" of England's Buckingham palace guards was originated by Charles II to determine if his soldiers were sober.

Heiress Sues Psychiatrist For 1½ Million

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—An heiress to a washing machine fortune sued her lady psychiatrist yesterday, claiming the doctor lied to a relative about her mental condition.

Mrs. Elizabeth Revyuk asked 1½ million dollars damages from Dr. Flanders Dunbar, a Fifth Avenue psychiatrist. The doctor's lawyer called the allegations false and scandalous.

Mrs. Revyuk charged in State Supreme Court that Dr. Dunbar falsified her mental condition in a "corrupt bargain" with Mrs. Revyuk's brother.

The result, Mrs. Revyuk claimed was a five-year legal battle over her $1,250,000 inheritance.

The suit also accused the doctor of being drunk during consultations.

Mrs. Revyuk is one of four children sharing the five-million-dollar estate of the late washing machine magnate, E. H. Maytag. She said she was Dr. Dunbar's patient for a month in 1947. The suit added:

"I ceased consulting Dr. Dunbar as a physician when, upon coming to her office on a number of occasions to keep appointments for medical treatment, I found that she was utterly or partially intoxicated. . . .

"On June 16, 1950, the physician illegally and maliciously and without my consent told my brother, Frederick L. Maytag, one of the trustees of my father's estate, that I was subject to hysteria, underdeveloped and immature mentally, that I needed psychiatric treatment and would very possibly go over the brink and develop a true psychosis, that I was easily susceptible to dominance and exploitation and that I was quite skilled in telling convincing untruths.

"The statements were false and untrue and they were known by the doctor to be false and untrue. . . .

"These malicious, false and untrue statements were the result of a corrupt bargain entered into between the doctor and my brother, whereby the doctor agreed, for a consideration, to cooperate with and assist my brother to withhold from me the property left to me by my father."

Randolph Enters W.Va. Senate Race

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 22 (AP)—Former State Senate President Byron B. Randolph, out of the political spotlight since World War II, stepped back onto the stage today by filing as a United States Senate candidate.

The 49-year-old Clarksburg attorney said he mailed to the secretary of state yesterday his certificate of candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the unexpired term of the late Sen. Harley M. Kilgore.

His entry, the first from Northern West Virginia, enlarged to three the field of contenders in the May 8 primary election for the Democratic nomination. Gov. Marland and Atty. Gen. John G. Fox are the others.

High Farm Costs, Low Prices Big Political Issue In Iowa

Editor's Note:—This is another in a series of articles by AP's national political reporters who are surveying the situation in the light of President Eisenhower's decision to seek a second term.

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

DES MOINES, March 22 (AP)—High costs and low prices for farmers are the great, burning political issue in Iowa.

President Eisenhower's health, whether Vice President Nixon will remain his political partner, foreign policy — they just don't count for much in the present stage of election year political maneuvering.

What claims the attention of the politicians is the grumbling on the farms where that tall corn grows. Because of it, some Republicans feel a little shaky, Democrats hopeful.

Of course, they felt much the same two years ago, when farmers were complaining about much the same things. And the state went solidly Republican in the congressional and gubernatorial elections then—just as it did in 1952.

But since then parts of Iowa have been parched by two years of drought. The price of hogs, from which the state gets about 40 per cent of its farm income, has fallen farther, below the break-even point.

If fields stay dry and the price of hogs fails to go up in the seven months before the November election, enough farmers might decide to switch to the Democrats to snatch the state away from the GOP.

Right now the chances of that appear somewhat slim in this traditionally Republican State. Even on the farms, there still is plenty of "I Like Ike" sentiment.

If it lasts, it could give a lift to Republican Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper and Republican Gov. Leo A. Hoegh next November. Hickenlooper first has to get past a couple of opponents in the June 4 primary. So far, Hoegh has no opposition in the primary.

The state has no presidential primary. If it did, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee might give a shellacking to Adlai E. Stevenson in a Democratic test run.

A leading Democratic politician who favors Stevenson for president says, "Kefauver would run better in Iowa, and with the farm situation the way it is, I think he would carry the state."

A top Republican official says the GOP would find Kefauver harder to beat than Stevenson. This same official says he is confident Iowa will go for President Eisenhower again.

When you swing around the state by car, stopping to chat with all sorts of people—dirt farmers, housewives, cab drivers, business men, bankers, publishers, on up to the governor—you find more of them than not saying they still are leaning toward Ike and the GOP.

Some aren't learning as far as they once did. Some have decided to jump to the Democrats. So the Republicans can't count on as big a victory margin as they have enjoyed in the past.

Furthermore, there are some strong dissenters to the idea they will win at all. Listen, for example, to a newspaper publisher in normally Republican territory in the northwestern corner of the state:

"I do not think Ike can carry Iowa. If the Democrats get a good man to run for governor, they'll take the state house, too. The governor—he has boosted taxes—is very unpopular."

Drought and the hog market have made farmers unhappy, he says.

Some farmers are in such financial trouble, he says , they are coming to town hunting jobs. Reflecting conditions on the farms, he says, business is off with chain, department and clothing stores, with tractor and farm implement dealers, and with new car dealers.

Thirty miles south the chap running a garage and filling station is a Republican. He gave up farming and now many of his customers are farmers. He says: "A lot of them are talking Democratic."

To the west a bit, some of the farm people are saying sure their incomes are down, they have to expect it, and they aren't starving.

Things probably haven't been as tough in northwestern Iowa as in the southwest, where the soil is thinner and drought has hit harder. Down that way, there has been an increase in the number of old timers and young farmers who have been giving up and getting out.

Farther east, where the soil is better and there is more moisture and diversification, there still is growling over low prices and high costs but it isn't as loud.

In Iowa, there are these factors to be considered:

The farm equipment industry already is feeling a pinch. Tow manufacturers have been laying off help. A wholesale distributor for 20 counties says business is off about 10 per cent from last year. Retain sales are slow, stocks heavy.

Throughout the state, bank deposits are down, loans are up. Bankers say this mirrors the troubles of the farmer.

Rural mail orders to Des Moines department stores reportedly have dwindled.

The state's biggest organization of farmers, the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, has slipped some in membership. It backs the Eisenhower administration's farm program.

The Iowa poll of the Des Moines Sunday Register reports that nearly two-thirds of the people on farms and in small towns, and just over half of those in cities, feel the Democratic party best serves the interest of farmers. There is a preponderance of sentiment that the Democrats also serve labor interests best while the GOP best serves interests of business, professional and white collar people.

Although other Iowans have a better opinion, farmers give Secretary of Agriculture Benson a low rating in the Iowa poll on the kind of job he is doing.

The big question, and it can't be answered yet, is whether the Democrats will be able to sell the voters the idea that Eisenhower is responsible for the farm problem.

Maine Demos Backing Adlai

BREWER, Maine, March 22 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson is the presidential choice of Maine's top Democrats who have expressed a desire or willingness to go to the national convention.

Maine Democrats, who generally send an unpledged delegation to the national meeting, will hold their state convention here Firday and Saturday.

Of 15 likely candidates for Maine seats at Chicago, 10 favored Stevenson in an Associated Press poll, two said they preferred Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tenneessee. Three wouldn't tag anyone yet, saying it is too early. Maine will have 14 votes.

One of those favoring Stevenson is Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, the first Democrat to win a major political office in Maine in 20 years.

Stevenson also has the backing of actress Bette Davies, who will lend glamor to the state convention as a delegate from Cape Elizabeth. She said, however, she hadn't given much thought to trying to be a national delegate.

Sailor Found Guilty Of Robbing Annapolis Stores Gets 13 Years

ANNAPOLIS, March 22 (AP)—Arthur Clinton Powers, 19-year-old sailor attached to the Naval Academy, has been sentenced to 13 years in the penitentiary on charges of stealing nearly $4,000 worth of merchandise from Annapolis stores.

The young Louisville, Ky., Negro pleaded guilty to breaking and entering Tilghman's Jewelry Store on Jan. 24 and the Carr, Mears and Dawson clothing firm Dec. 13.

Judge Benjamin Miachelson sentenced him to 10 years for the jewelry theft and three years on the other charge. He also sentenced him to two years for breaking into a drug store but since nothing was taken specified the sentence would be served concurrently.

City police testifed they went to Louisville to recover some of the missing loot.

Atom Industry Outlook Long On Difficulty, Short On Profits

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—The big, busy and almost profitless atomics industry is scanning its future soberly, despite the removal of the last legal barrier to privately owned nuclear power plants.

The Atomic Energy Commission issued on Feb. 18 the regulations under which companies may run reactors to produce commercial electricity, as authorized by the Atomic Energy Act 17 months earlier.

President Eisenhower gave an added boost, mostly psychological for the present, by ordering a billion dollars worth of uranium earmarked for power and other civilian purposes, here and abroad, "over a period of year."

Nevertheless industry leaders are rapping on Congress' door with a bundle of complaints about secrecy and red tape, and appeals for changes in the law.

The industry also is studying the first comprehensive report on the probable impact of the peaceful atom. Some findings were encouraging, some disturbing.

The report was compiled for the Senate - House Atomic Energy Committee by nine experts from industry, science, labor and the public, headed by publisher Robert McKinney of Santa Fe, N.M.

In effect, the panel said:

The atomic age is worth trying for, harder than we have been trying. Industry should carry much of the development load, but government must remove some remaining obstacles and expend more money and effort itself. Even with this done, atomic progress will be gradual enough to permit orderly national adjustment.

In fact, 1965 is probably the "earliest time" at which atom-fueled generators can begin to compete widely with coal or hydro power, although seven big reactors now are planned or building. One of these will deliver high-cost electricity next year.

Seven smaller "demonstration" plants—perhaps the prototypes of reactors usable in hinterland towns where power is expensive—recently have been approved by AEC.

The McKinney team regards this progress, mostly still on paper, as an insufficient response to President Eisenhower's call for the spreading of atomic benefits throughout the free world. If need be, AEC should use the taxpayers' money to build one demonstration reactor of every major type, the panel said.

On peacetime applications other than commercial power, the panel and other experts have reported these conclusions:

Ships: The atom can be "a significant source of power for commercial shipping within the next 10 to 15 years."

Aircraft: Atomic warplanes "seem feasible," but for 15 to 20 years commercial development of atomic transports is likely to be insignificant.

Locomotives: They already are feasible technically, but far from feasible economically. Two pending bills would authorize a government-built atomic locomotive. There are objections: the cost, the catastorphe potential of an atomic train wreck, and locomotives do not need unlimited range.

Autos, Trucks and Buses: Former AEC Chairman Gordon Dean says: "Forget it."

"Process Heating": Ten per cent of all U. S. energy is heat used to produce metals, chemicals, and other products. These industries may be able to use reactor heat directly, instead of converting it into steam and then electricity. But at least five years of development are needed.

Radiation Energy: Radiation itself may replace heat or chemical agents in such chemical processes as rubber and plastics manufacture. Outlook, speculative.

Isotopes: Radioisotopes, or rayemitting minerals in commercially usable forms, are used by 1,200 companies for quality control, inspection and other purposes. They save industry 100 million dollars annually. Their use will expand enormously, but they will not become an important commercial by-product of reactor operation.

H-Power: It is hard to guess when thermonuclear energy — the controlled application of the hydrogen bomb principle — will be feasible. AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss guesses possibly 20 years.

Last year's Geneva atomic conference demonstrated that American atomic technology leads the world.

Nevertheless this country's 40-odd reactor and equipment makers know they are competing for survival in the industry. They expect years of heavy investment and small returns.

Two potential bread-and-butter prospects have appeared. One is the foreign market, ready and waiting. The other is the ship-propulsion market which unfolded after the success of the submarine Nautilus.

Atomics men believe propulsion will be their earnings mainstay for the next ten years. A whole fleet of subs and undoubtedly some naval surface ships will be atom-powered. A fair portion of the aging U. S. merchant fleet may eventually be replaced with atom-propelled vessels. The Maritime Administration has asked 23 companies to submit designs by March 16 for atomic oil tankers to be launched in 1959.

The foreign reactor market might eventually provide 30 billion dollars in orders, mostly for small reactors, partly financed at the outset with U. S. funds.

The industry contends that AEC's security policies in two major respects are needlessly obstructing foreign sales and encouraging buyers to dicker with England or Russia.

Secrecy is the first complaint. American firms say they cannot tell a foreign buyer the things he must know about choosing, installing and operating a reactor.

The second major complaint is fuel policy. Whereas private firms may own reactors, the government will own all atomic "fuel." And because the fission process creates new material from which atomic bombs may be made, used fuel elements must be sent back to the United States for reprocessing. As sole buyer of the by-product materials, the government fixes the price—a figure which the industry says is too low.

Eisenhower's announcement on Feb. 22 that 88,000 pounds of American U235 "will be made available for either sale or lease under conditions prescribed by the United States government" did not resolve this problem.

Other countries, while less advanced technically, are very much in the race for reactor business. And because potential buyers need power urgently, they have been more than willing to settle for reactor designs that are not pretty or perfect, but workable and saleable.

The industry contends that AEC's security policies in two major respects are needlessly obstructing foreign sales and encouraging buyers to dicker with England or Russia.

Secrecy is the first complaint. American firms say they cannot tell a foreign buyer the things he must know about choosing, installing and operating a reactor.

The second major complaint is fuel policy. Whereas private firms may own reactors, the government will own all atomic "fuel." And because the fission process creates new material from which atomic bombs may be made, used fuel elements must be sent back to the United States for reprocessing. As sole buyer of the by-product materials, the government fixes the price—a figure which the industry says is too low.

Eisenhower's announcement on Feb. 22 that 88,000 pounds of American U235 "will be made available for either sale or lease under conditions prescribed by the United States government" did not resolve this problem.

Other countries, while less advanced technically, are very much in the race for reactor business. And because potential buyers need power urgently, they have been more than willing to settle for reactor designs that are not pretty or perfect, but workable and saleable.

Railsplitters Arrest Mayor Of Piedmont

Carpet Court Makes Big Hit

PIEDMONT—Piedmont Centennial and Tri-Towns celebration was officially opened Wednesday night March 21 with a humorous Carpet Court held on the Municipal Parking Lot at the corner of Ashfield and Third Street.

The large crowd enjoyed the humorous mock trials with Michael Laffey the chief judge presiding.

A number of prominent citizens, members of the Railsplitters, including Mayor Rodney Baker paid their fine assessed by the judge and also remanded them to jail which was provided alongside of the court.

Mayor Baker who was charged with not having his hat and badge on March 20 pleaded guilty, was fined 25 cents and sentenced to the temporary jail.

Others appearing before the Court were A. F. Hokamp, chairman of the executive of the Piedmont Centennial. He pleaded guilty on not having his hat and badge on and was fined 50 cents and jail term for contempt. Judge Laffey denied him the appeal he asked for.

Harold Fredlock, a former mayor of Piedmont also pleaded guilty and was fined and jailed. Norman Baughman a former city councilman was fined 75 cents and jailed.

Ormond Ledlow, city clerk, acted as the court clerk as did Raymond Lee, chairman of the Railsplitters committee.

Music was provided by the Railsplitters Band.

George Raymond Moon and Stanley Bonney were the officers who escorted the prisoners to pail.

Congress Told To Consider Problems Of Older Citizens

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP) — The time has come, Congress was told today, for this nation to give its older citizens at least as much attention as it now pays to its cows, or its seed corn, or even its statistics.

Rep. Edith Green (D) of Portland, Ore., is plumping for a Bureau of Older Persons. She figures it will cost around two million dollars the first year, or, she says, about a fourth of what the federal government spends each year on the diseases of farm animals or on research for field crops.

"I believe the American people," Mrs. Green said in the Congressional Record, "consider the problems of our older citizens more important than cattle and seed corn. It is time we said so."

Furthermore, Mrs. Green said, "we have bureaus for every purpose in the government today — even statistics have their special bureaus. It really is deplorable that there is no agency of government specifically charged with a total concern for the problems of the aged."

Well, Congress moves slowly, so Mrs. Green probably won't succeed in getting that bureau set up, at least not right away.

But Congress has shown a lot of interest in the problems of the older folks lately, and for good reasons. With the life span steadily increasing, the proportion of older voters goes up. And congressmen are growing older.

Rep. Sidney Yates (D) of Chicago, made this point in the House. He reminded his colleagues that if they had the same rules many industries follow — compulsory retirement at 65 — you wouldn't recognize the old place.

The blow would be bipartisan. The Democratic leader, Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham, Tex., is 74. The Republican leader, Joe Martin of North Attleboro, Mass., is 71.

Many older people have no other choice, Yates said; they lie about their ages.

He said it reminded him of the patriotic Irishman who rushed out to enlist the day after Pearl Harbor. But when he said he was 41, the sergeant told him he was too old, that 38 was the limit.

The next day the Irishman was back.

"Sergeant," he said, "I made a mistake yesterday. My age is 38. Sure, it's my old mother what's 41."

Maplehurst Golf Course Work Has Been Completed

Stockholders of the new Maplehurst Country Club at Frostburg were informed at the annual meeting in the Frostburg Legion Home that the nine-hole course has been completed.

The date set for opening of play on the course is tentatively the Memorial Day weekend, Robert Goode, grounds chairman, announced.

The playground committee reported that tables have been placed in the play area, and swings, seesaw and slide will be erected when weather permits.

Ernest Bampton of the club house committee said the showers and locker rooms have been completed, ceiling and walls finished, heat has been furnished and the bar will be installed soon.

The entertainment committee headed by Fred Dean said the country club will hold a card party Wednesday, April 11, in St. Michael's Hall, and a dance May 25 at the Clary Club.

Ralph M. Race, finance chairman, said the club has 282 paid-up members.

James S. Getty reported on a change in the by-laws whereby there will be 16 directors instead of 12, and officers will be elected by the board of directors rather than the stockholders.

Directors chosen at the election Wednesday were Mrs. Jane Day, Leo F. Dean, Getty, Charles Pinto, Robert Prichard, William J. Powers, Sara J. Rank and Waverly Rice.

The stockholders voted to have a $20 initiation fee after June 1 and that any person joining prior to October 1 must pay a full year's dues.

Receives Certificate

Patricia Ann Kirk, 800 Columbia Avenue, was presented a certificate of attendance in X-ray technology at commencement exercises last night, at the Frankling School of Science and Arts, Philadelphia.

Family Will Claim Body Of W. C. Morris

Members of the family of Wilmer Clifton Morris, whose body was being held here for identification yesterday contacted County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, concerning disposition of the body. At first it was believed he had no relatives.

Lilya informed them the body was being held at the Stein Funeral Home, where it was taken after Morris apparently died while en route to Secred Heart Hospital after becoming ill while visiting friends in the Flintstone area.

The body will be returned to Baltimore for services and interment.

Bakeries, Teamsters Sign New Contract

The new contract between three local bakeries and Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL-CIO), was signed Wednesday.

Instrumental Music Festival Slated Today

The first Western Maryland Instrumental Music Festival sponsored by the Maryland Musical Education Association will be held today in Compton Hall, Frostburg State Teachers College.

The college will be host to six bands and two orchestras from high schools in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Participating will be the Bruce High School band and orchestra under the direction of William D. Simpson; Valley High School Band, directed by Joseph Derry; Beall High School Band, directed by Frank Munson.

Mt. Savage High School Band, directed by Alfred Snyder; Allegany High School orchestra, directed by S. Lua Syckes; Fort Hill High School Band, directed by Robert Nutter, and Northern High School, Accident, Band, directed by Melvin Schwing.

Beginning at 9:30 a. m. each band and orchestra will play a 20-minute concert. Their music will be evaluated by Lawrence W. Stitt, associate professor of Music at State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa.

Stitt, after hearing each unit, will prepare written comment and suggestions on the playing for use of the students and the directors.

W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music for Allegany County schools who is first vice president of the Maryland Musical Education Association, said no ratings will be given as far as first, second or third. The main idea behind the festival is for a clinical evaluation of the music played by the students, he added.

At 1:30 p. m. Stitt will become guest director and will conduct a clinical rehearsal of the four band selections used in the recent Allegany County high school band festival.

Stitt will direct a 68-piece band selected from all the bands participating.

The 350 students who will attend will have lunch in the college cafeteria. Taking charge of arrangements at the college will be Charles I. Sager, director of music at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Co-chairman with Routch in arranging the overall event is S. Lua Syckes, second vice president of the state musical education association, orchestra division.

This is the first event of its kind to be held in Western Maryland, as the state association has always held its festivals at University of Maryland at College Park.

Maplehurst Golf Course Work Has Been Completed

Stockholders of the new Maplehurst Country Club at Frostburg were informed at the annual meeting in the Frostburg Legion Home that the nine-hole course has been completed.

The date set for opening of play on the course is tentatively the Memorial Day weekend, Robert Goode, grounds chairman, announced.

The playground committee reported that tables have been placed in the play area, and swings, seesaw and slide will be erected when weather permits.

Ernest Bampton of the club house committee said the showers and locker rooms have been completed, ceiling and walls finished, heat has been furnished and the bar will be installed soon.

The entertainment committee headed by Fred Dean said the country club will hold a card party Wednesday, April 11, in St. Michael's Hall, and a dance May 25 at the Clary Club.

Ralph M. Race, finance chairman, said the club has 282 paid-up members.

James S. Getty reported on a change in the by-laws whereby there will be 16 directors instead of 12, and officers will be elected by the board of directors rather than the stockholders.

Directors chosen at the election Wednesday were Mrs. Jane Day, Leo F. Dean, Getty, Charles Pinto, Robert Prichard, William J. Powers, Sara J. Rank and Waverly Rice.

The stockholders voted to have a $20 initiation fee after June 1 and that any person joining prior to October 1 must pay a full year's dues.

Instrumental Music Festival Slated Today

The first Western Maryland Instrumental Music Festival sponsored by the Maryland Musical Education Association will be held today in Compton Hall, Frostburg State Teachers College.

The college will be host to six bands and two orchestras from high schools in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Participating will be the Bruce High School band and orchestra under the direction of William D. Simpson; Valley High School Band, directed by Joseph Derry; Beall High School Band, directed by Frank Munson.

Mt. Savage High School Band, directed by Alfred Snyder; Allegany High School orchestra, directed by S. Lua Syckes; Fort Hill High School Band, directed by Robert Nutter, and Northern High School, Accident, Band, directed by Melvin Schwing.

Beginning at 9:30 a. m. each band and orchestra will play a 20-minute concert. Their music will be evaluated by Lawrence W. Stitt, associate professor of Music at State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa.

Stitt, after hearing each unit, will prepare written comment and suggestions on the playing for use of the students and the directors.

W. Valgene Routch, supervisor of music for Allegany County schools who is first vice president of the Maryland Musical Education Association, said no ratings will be given as far as first, second or third. The main idea behind the festival is for a clinical evaluation of the music played by the students, he added.

At 1:30 p. m. Stitt will become guest director and will conduct a clinical rehearsal of the four band selections used in the recent Allegany County high school band festival.

Stitt will direct a 68-piece band selected from all the bands participating.

The 350 students who will attend will have lunch in the college cafeteria. Taking charge of arrangements at the college will be Charles I. Sager, director of music at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Co-chairman with Routch in arranging the overall event is S. Lua Syckes, second vice president of the state musical education association, orchestra division.

This is the first event of its kind to be held in Western Maryland, as the state association has always held its festivals at University of Maryland at College Park.

There Is Disunity Among Arabs Too

Egypt, oil-rich Saudi Arabia and Syria have agreed—or said on March 12 they had agreed—on plans for joint "defense" against Israel, and are striving to bring into their agreement the other six members of the Arab League—Jordan, oil-rich Iraq, Lebanon, Yemen, Libya and Sudan. But Iraq denounces the Egypt-Saudi Arabian program and is framing one of its own for achieving Arab unity.

The question is, Can pan-Arab unity be achieved by a negative force: animosity toward Israel? Nobody doubts that all the Arab states cherish that animosity. Indeed, it is to be found also in non-Arab Moslem states such as Iran, Afghanistan and even Pakistan.

When it comes to positive forces to bring all the Arab states into unity, difficulties arise. Iraq is allied with Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Great Britain in the Baghdad Pact, and is laboring manfully to pull Jordan into it. Egypt is laboring just as manfully to keep Jordan out of it, and was encouraged when the Jordan king was persuaded recently to dismiss the British chief of staff of the Jordan army, Lt. Gen. John B. Glubb. (The Egyptians are evidently jealous of Turkey as a potential rival for the leadership of the Middle East.)

King Hussein of Jordan is a member of the Hashemite dynasty. So is his cousin, King Feisal of Iraq. But the Hashemites were driven out of Mecca 30 years ago by the father of the present king of Saudi Arabia, who is supposed to fear and mistrust them.

Sharp differences on policy are to be found even within Jordan. Some Jordanians believe their country will benefit by entering the Baghdad alignment. Others, especially Jordanians west of the Jordan River, are afraid that any such tie would distract attention from the Arab refugees from Palestine encamped in that part of the kingdom.

These Days

The Right To Abstain

It comes up every time there is an election. Somebody hammers the drums and the tambourines to get out the vote. That used to be the job of the politicians, to ring door-bells, to provide transportation and in my childhood, even to pay $2 or $3 per vote. Today, the get-out-the-vote business is a public enterprise, engaged in by worthy citizens who proclaim themselves non-partisan. The idea is to make the citizen who abstains from voting ashamed of himself, even though his conscience might bother him if he voted because he felt he could not choose between two demagogues, or two men of low moral character, or two crooks, or two bums.

Of course, one can be fashionable, go into the voting booth, stay a few seconds, come out again after having made a noise like voting. Under such circumstances, one can vote or not vote and yet avoid having an accusing person on television ask, "What kind of an American are you?"

In my state, it often happens that it is impossible for a conscientious American to make a choice. For instance, we may in 1956 have as candidates for the United States Senate, Herbert Lehman on the Democratic ticket and Jacob Javits on the Republican ticket. I could not vote for either. It would worry me to know that I cast a vote to help perpetrate either of these men. So if they run, I shall not vote for a United States senator.

It has been said that I am wrong, that good citizenship requires that I should choose between the lesser of two evils. That to me is a sin. If they are both evil, we should avoid them both. What happens here in New York must happen in other parts of the country; that is, the politicians of either party select candidates for public office who, to certain voters, are unsuitable and therefore the voter has no choice. Just as no voter may be physically coerced to vote for anyone, so he ought not to be mentally coerced by any type of social pressure to vote for a person just because he is constantly told on radio and television that to abstain from voting is bad citizenship. Under certain circumstances, abstention may be the best kind of citizenship. It is a moral resistance to bad politics.

There was a time when it was possible to vote for Norman Thomas as what was called a protest vote. The idea was that as Thomas could not possibly be elected but was a decent, reputable person, a vote cast for him would not elect him but would annoy the politicians. How much such voting annoyed the politicians, I do not know. I should imagine that it amounted to very little. However, Norman Thomas no longer runs for public office and therefore he is no longer a sanctuary for those whose consciences bother them about unsuitable candidates. I once voted for Roger Babson for president because he wore whiskers which I found a better reason than voting for either Franklin D. Roosevelt or Wendell Willkie.

This year, there is an element of danger in abstention from voting for the Republicans, but this is not so much a matter of conscience as that many will believe that as Eisenhower cannot be defeated, they might as well play golf on election day. I fear we pay too much attention to the presidency and not enough to Congress which, in our political system, is more important. About one-third of the Senate and the whole of the House of Representatives will be elected in 1956 and the citizens really ought to give Congress a great deal of thought.

I find such senators among Republicans as well as Democrats and from my standpoint what is wrong with them is that they sacrifice the best interests of the United States for what must be a temporary popularity. They are fashion-conscious senators, who are now for rock and roll as they were for swing and before that jazz, to use a figure of speech. They switch and change for a headline in the newspapers. Such men exist in the public life of a free, competitive society at all times, but usually the people wise up to them and defeat them. 1956 is a good year for that.

CAB Chairman Rizley Admits Board Capitulated To Airlines' Pressure

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Only a few overheard their whispered conversation, but the Civil Aeronautic Board's Chairman Ross Rizley insisted to Commissioner Joe Adams the other day that their agency, the CAB, had capitulated to pressure from the big airlines.

Rizley was on the witness stand before the House Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee, explaining why the CAB had increased trans-Atlantic passenger rates 10 per cent.

"As I understand it," said Chairman Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn, "your statement is tantamount to capitulation to the scheduled airlines."

"No," Rizley protested. "It was our own airlines, plus Europe, Asia, Africa, and Australia."

"Let's say capitulation to all the airlines," suggested Celler.

There was a hushed, but agitated, conference between Rizley and Adams.

"No, no, no," protested Adams hoarsely.

"Of course we capitulated," Chairman Rizley whispered. "We did, and I have got to say so."

Rizley turned to the committee and finished his testimony.

"That is right," he said for the record.

Secret Senate Deal

It's a strange combination, but a Democratic senator and a Republican cabinet officer have teamed up to block any more liberalization of the social security laws to help widows with disabled children, oldsters and white-collar workers. They are Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia and Secretary Marion Folsom of Health, Education and Welfare.

Byrd even went so far as to call a private meeting of the Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee, a strange maneuver for a Democrat. He asked the Republicans to meet with Secretary Folsom and give him their pledge to hold the line against social security reforms.

At issue are amendments that would grant federal disability insurance for people over 50 years old, lower the retirement age for women from 65 to 62, provide continued survivor benefits to widows with disabled children over 18, and extend social security to more white-collar workers.

The House accepted these amendments by an overwhelming vote but they are now bottled in the Senate Finance Committee, presided over by Byrd. Folsom has been careful not to take a public position against the reforms, but he has been pulling wires privately to block them.

Folsom used to be undersecretary of the treasury and an executive of Eastman Kodak. Today he seems to be looking at social security as a finance man and a big business man rather than the head of a humanitarian department of government.

The proposed social security amendments would be financed by increasing the rate one per cent, half to be contributed by the employers and half to be withheld from employes' pay checks. This would cost big corporations several million dollars, would cost an employe an extra $21 per year maximum.

Ike Agrees To Bottle

Because it's an election year, the Eisenhower administration has ducked taking a public stand against the reforms. Instead, Folsom has put off testifying before the Finance Committee four times. He's finally expected to appear today, but will probably not oppose the bill openly. Instead, he's claiming the bill would be difficult to administer and that it would be all but impossible for doctors to determine disability.

Inside fact is that the Social Security Administration has already worked out plans to administer the new reforms, but Folsom has forbidden his subordinates to testify on this. How simple administration of the reforms whould be is shown by the fact that 5,000 doctors are already determining disability for railroad workers' compensation without any trouble.

Last week, Folsom reported privately to President Eisenhower that the Republicans with Byrd's help would be able to bottle the social security amendments in the Senate Finance Committee. Folsom went to the White House with Pennsylvania's grim Sen. Ed Martin, top Republican on the Finance Committee, who also gave his assurances.

They promised Ike that the amendments would never come up on the Senate floor, but would be blocked with a minimum of publicity. They promised that the Republicans would vote solidly to kill the reforms and could count on Byrd's vote, plus another possible Democratic vote — Delaware Sen. Allen Frear's.

Some Republicans, facing reelection this year, may cave in, however, rather than be exposed to the glare of publicity.

Father And Son

Congressman Usher Burdick of North Dakota, for 18 years a Republican member of Congress, has been doing some soul-searching as to whether he should join the Democratic party.

Reason is that his son, Quentin, is going to run for the Senate from North Dakota as a Democrat. This would put the two Burdicks on the opposite side of the political fence in a state which is small population-wise.

Burdick, therefore, has been trying to decide whether he should help his son's political career by switching his party affiliation; or whether he should remain a Republican but retire from Congress; or whether he should run again on the ballot of the Republican party even though it means opposing his son.

Farm Bill Will Show President's Legislative Power

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — A conspicuous illustration of the power of the presidency in writing legislation is about to be given the country. For there will be no farm bill enacted into law unless the measures that have passed the House and the Senate are rewritten by a joint Senate-House Committee in the form of a single compromise bill satisfactory to Mr. Eisenhower.

The threat of a veto is meaningful because there is no two-thirds majority in both houses to pass a bill over the President's disapproval. Hence, the factions all know they must make concessions to the presidential viewpoint.

As a matter of fact, many of the senators and representatives cast their votes on specific amendments to the omnibus farm bill with the knowledge that no such provisions would ever become law. They had to show their constituencies, however, that they had made an effort to get the supports on prices that were desired by cotton or wheat or corn or cattle farmers.

Sectional Interests Predominate

The experience of the Senate on the farm bill, with so many close votes and so many contradictions, is indicative of the kind of thing Congress has gone through again and again on tariff legislation in the past. Local interests usually force individual members of Congress to take positive positions which are at variance with the views of other members of the same party. Sectional interests predominate in such a situation, and the president alone looks at the problem as a whole from the viewpoint of all the people rather than of any group.

No better description of this phase of the American legislative process has ever been written than that once penned by Woodrow Wilson, the centennial of whose birth is being celebrated this year. He wrote in his book, "Constitutional Government in the United States:"

"So far as the government itself is concerned, there is but one national voice in the country, and that is the voice of the president. His isolation has quite unexpectedly been his exaltation. The House represents localities, is made up of individuals whose interest is the interest of separate and scattered constituencies, who are drawn together, indeed, under a master, the speaker, but who are controlled by no national force except that of their party, a force outside the government rather than within it.

President Represents Country

"The Senate represents in its turn regions and interests distinguished by many conflicting and contrasted purposes, united only by exterior party organization and a party spirit not generated within the chamber itself. Only the president represents the country as a whole, and the president himself is cooperatively bound to the houses only by the machinery and discipline of party, not as a person and functionary, but as a member of an outside organization which exists quite independently of the executive and legislature."

This correspondent, an undergraduate at Princeton University at the time, heard Mr. Wilson emphasize the above comment in a lecture in the spring of 1909. It was prophetic of the struggle of President Taft later with the Payne-Aldrich Tariff Bill, which had to be rewritten in conference by a Senate-House Joint Committee. Mr. Taft's failure to get a bill that represented the national interest helped to split the Republican party and bring him defeat in 1912.

It is interesting to note that the same problem of presidential influence and power is emerging today with respect to the farm bill.

Basically, the proposed farm legislation is an effort by all its sponsors to bolster the agricultural industry, just as the tariff laws were designed to support the manufacturing industry of the country. The farm groups feel that the federal government must protect them against the ruinous competition brought by world prices and by the uncontrolled production of crops.

Ike's Reaction Interesting

Today all schemes of regulation and support of farm prices — whether they are called "flexible" or "rigid"—aim to maintain high levels of farm income. The power of the government is interjected to help control the law of supply and demand. When politics gets the upper hand, huge surpluses are accumulated and the subsidy to the farmers reaches many billions of dollars, which all taxpayers must pay. The result is not necessarily a reduction of costs to the housewife but a maintenance of farm incomes, irrespective of that consideration.

So with pressure groups influencing the course of government, the only force that can help achieve a balance between producers and consumers is the president. In a campaign year, minority groups exercise an influence out of all proportion to their numbers or their legitimate claims. It will be interesting to observe how much the pressure of votes will affect the President himself and the kind of farm legislation that he will demand as he faces a political revolt in the farm states.

How It Happened

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Arthur "Bugs" Baer is the originator of some of America's most-often-repeated sayings. In the absence of his regular column—"Baering Down On the News"—because of his illness, The Cumberland News is presenting Baer's own explanations of how he came to coin some of the more famous of his sayings.

"He could throw a lamb chop past a wolf."

When I was writing baseball for Mr. Munsey's Washington Times the job gave me the opportunity of going South with Clark Griffith and his Senators.

Unfortunately Griff's idea of the South was a 90-mile safari into Charlottesville in the Blue Ridge mountains, where we spent most of our time huddled around a campfire at home plate.

But it was there I met Walter Johnson, the greatest pitcher of all time. His speed was so terrific that umpires waited until they heard a thud in the catcher's glove and then yelled, "Strike."

When Walter was pitching three thuds were out.

In the spring of 1911 I wrote about the visiting batter who struck out on Johnson's throw to first base to catch a runner napping, giving Walter a strike out and an assist on one throw.

But just to show you what a quick thinker I was —and always have been — Walter was through with baseball before I thought up the paragraph that memorialized his "swift" in men's minds for all time.

That line was, "He could throw a lamb chop past a wolf."

After Minnesota

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

The voters of Minnesota have briskly shaken up the whole political scene in the same way that a child shakes a toy kaledioscope. All the pieces of the political picture have changed position, and it will never look the same again.

As far as Adlai Stevenson is concerned, the big question is, of course, whether the grievous wound he has sustained is mortal. His supporters claim that he can rise, like Sir Andrew Barton, and fight again. Most observers on the sidelines, including Democrats friendly to him, suspect that he is finished.

Angry And Embattled

Stevenson's own mood may turn out to be a factor in the equation. Friends who sat with him Tuesday night, as the disastrous news of Estes Kefauver's victory came in, say that he became increasingly angry and embattled as the evening wore on. His parting words were: "Damn it, bring on the next one, and we'll show them."

The next one, of course, is the Florida primary and the one after that California. It Stevenson's embattled mood is sustained, he just might "show them" in both, which of course he must do to remain in the running. Stevenson's greatest weakness so far is that despite the admirable style and content of many of his speeches, he has been unable to convey to the voters any sense of real emotion about the issues. It has been as though he were hardly personally involved in the campaign at all.

"The crowds listened to him politely, as though he were a professor," one who watched the Minnesota contest has said. "Kefauver spoke simply, even rather boringly, and then answered questions, and went out and shook hands. Steevnson hardly ever did. Stevenson would say that he was for 90 per cent of parity, but that it wasn't the answer to the farm problem, while Kefauver would say he was for 100 per cent and it was the answer."

Money, Workers Needed

Stevenson will be the underdog in Florida and California, an advantage Kefauver has hitherto enjoyed. If Stevenson now shows the fire and fight he has so far lacked, he might pull it off. But as one Stevenson admirer remarked mournfully, "Where are we going to get people to work for us now, at the precinct level? And where are we going to get the dough?"

Since Minnesota, getting the dough, which has previously been one of his great worries, should be easy for Kefauver. For Kefauver must of course now be considered a most serious contender. His special campaign formula — the little-man-against-the-bosses, plus a something - for - everybody - policy line—has been proved to the hilt, and no one is likely to make the mistake of again underestimating his political courage and shrewdness.

Yet the Kefauver formula has its drawbacks. Wherever he goes, he is a threat to the established order of things. His Minnesota triumph was, of course, a kick in the face for the entire Minnesota Democratic leadership, and, as one Democrat remarked, "Leaders in every state are saying to themselves, 'There but for the grace of God go I.'" With the Northern professionals and Southern grandees united against him, it is still difficult to see how Kefauver can get a majority of the delegate votes.

That is one reason why the switchboards at New York's Tammany Hall and the governor's mansion in Albany have been humming ever since Tuesday night, with calls from shaken Stevenson supporters. The current word is that Gov. Averell Harriman can be expected to change from "inactive" status as a candidate, to "fairly active," but that he will not enter any primaries. Any delegate-hunting will be left up to shrewd Tammany leader Carmine De Sapio, who will do what needs to be done quietly, hardly stirring from New York.

Harriman Man To Beat

In the view of some experienced observers, Harriman is, indeed, now the man to beat. The chances of such dark horses as Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Stuart Symington have also been commensurately increased, of course—at least one knowledgeable Harriman man thinks that Symington, rather than Kefauver or the faltering Stevenson, presents the real danger to the Harriman candidacy.

But aside from individual fortunes, the whole shape and texture of the political scene have also been drastically altered by Minnesota. The heavy farm vote for Kefauver was certainly in part a protest vote, and thus a dire warning to the administration and the Republicans.

As for the Democrats, they will almost unanimously conclude that Stevenson-style "moderation" is not a paying proposition. Kefauver went all-out, not only on the farm issue, but on civil rights, repeal of Taft-Hartley, aid to Israel, and just about every "gut issue" there is. Kefauver's Minnesota victory thus looks like the portent of a rough, name-calling, vote-catching campaign, very different from the lofty "democratic dialogue" which Adlai Stevenson once envisioned.

Results Of Hip Fracture Nailing In Aged Amazing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The son of an 89-year-old woman was desperate. His mother had fractured her hip and the surgeon wanted to pin the fragments together. "She is too old for the operation," the son kept saying over and over again. The physician admitted she was not an ideal candidate, but surgery offered the best chance for survival.

The alternative was prolonged confinement in bed, holding the leg in position with sandbags, traction, or a bulky plaster of paris cast. Here, too, there was a risk; when oldsters are kept in bed for a long time, pneumonia often develops. But the elderly woman had spunk and settled the problem by telling the surgeon to do what he thought best.

After all, her memory was good and she could recall the outcome of a fractured hip prior to the advent of this operation. Thirty years ago, when a person in the seventh or eighth decades met with this mishap, it was regarded as the beginning of the end.

A trio of orthopedists from Sioux Falls, named Van Demark, reported on the results of nailing fractured hips in 24 consecutive patients ranging in age from 90 to 99 years. All but four survived the procedure. In this series, 28 operations were performed because two patients fractured both hips and in two others the repair job had to be done over.

The surgeons used nail plates and pins to fasten the fragments together. The operation is performed in less than an hour, including time for X-ray exposures and the development of the films. These hip operations are standard procedures. Most of the patients are elderly because fractured hips are more common in this age bracket.

The results are amazing and speak for themselves. Within a day or two the man or woman is allowed to move about the bed and shortly thereafter, encouraged to stand. The injured hip cannot bear weight until several weeks elapse but meanwhile the patient gets about on crutches or in a wheel chair.

At any rate, he is moving and not endangering his life by lying quietly in bed. The procedure never is used with those who are not alert, cooperative, or in good health.

The four deaths in this group of nonagenarians were due to uremia, heart failure, coronary thrombosis, and broncho-pneumonia respectively. All survived the immediate effects of the operation. The safety of these operations is the culmination of years of research in many branches of surgery, medicine, and anesthesiology.

There Is Disunity Among Arabs Too

Egypt, oil-rich Saudi Arabia and Syria have agreed—or said on March 12 they had agreed—on plans for joint "defense" against Israel, and are striving to bring into their agreement the other six members of the Arab League—Jordan, oil-rich Iraq, Lebanon, Yemen, Libya and Sudan. But Iraq denounces the Egypt-Saudi Arabian program and is framing one of its own for achieving Arab unity.

The question is, Can pan-Arab unity be achieved by a negative force: animosity toward Israel? Nobody doubts that all the Arab states cherish that animosity. Indeed, it is to be found also in non-Arab Moslem states such as Iran, Afghanistan and even Pakistan.

When it comes to positive forces to bring all the Arab states into unity, difficulties arise. Iraq is allied with Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Great Britain in the Baghdad Pact, and is laboring manfully to pull Jordan into it. Egypt is laboring just as manfully to keep Jordan out of it, and was encouraged when the Jordan king was persuaded recently to dismiss the British chief of staff of the Jordan army, Lt. Gen. John B. Glubb. (The Egyptians are evidently jealous of Turkey as a potential rival for the leadership of the Middle East.)

King Hussein of Jordan is a member of the Hashemite dynasty. So is his cousin, King Feisal of Iraq. But the Hashemites were driven out of Mecca 30 years ago by the father of the present king of Saudi Arabia, who is supposed to fear and mistrust them.

Sharp differences on policy are to be found even within Jordan. Some Jordanians believe their country will benefit by entering the Baghdad alignment. Others, especially Jordanians west of the Jordan River, are afraid that any such tie would distract attention from the Arab refugees from Palestine encamped in that part of the kingdom.

These Days

The Right To Abstain

It comes up every time there is an election. Somebody hammers the drums and the tambourines to get out the vote. That used to be the job of the politicians, to ring door-bells, to provide transportation and in my childhood, even to pay $2 or $3 per vote. Today, the get-out-the-vote business is a public enterprise, engaged in by worthy citizens who proclaim themselves non-partisan. The idea is to make the citizen who abstains from voting ashamed of himself, even though his conscience might bother him if he voted because he felt he could not choose between two demagogues, or two men of low moral character, or two crooks, or two bums.

Of course, one can be fashionable, go into the voting booth, stay a few seconds, come out again after having made a noise like voting. Under such circumstances, one can vote or not vote and yet avoid having an accusing person on television ask, "What kind of an American are you?"

In my state, it often happens that it is impossible for a conscientious American to make a choice. For instance, we may in 1956 have as candidates for the United States Senate, Herbert Lehman on the Democratic ticket and Jacob Javits on the Republican ticket. I could not vote for either. It would worry me to know that I cast a vote to help perpetrate either of these men. So if they run, I shall not vote for a United States senator.

It has been said that I am wrong, that good citizenship requires that I should choose between the lesser of two evils. That to me is a sin. If they are both evil, we should avoid them both. What happens here in New York must happen in other parts of the country; that is, the politicians of either party select candidates for public office who, to certain voters, are unsuitable and therefore the voter has no choice. Just as no voter may be physically coerced to vote for anyone, so he ought not to be mentally coerced by any type of social pressure to vote for a person just because he is constantly told on radio and television that to abstain from voting is bad citizenship. Under certain circumstances, abstention may be the best kind of citizenship. It is a moral resistance to bad politics.

There was a time when it was possible to vote for Norman Thomas as what was called a protest vote. The idea was that as Thomas could not possibly be elected but was a decent, reputable person, a vote cast for him would not elect him but would annoy the politicians. How much such voting annoyed the politicians, I do not know. I should imagine that it amounted to very little. However, Norman Thomas no longer runs for public office and therefore he is no longer a sanctuary for those whose consciences bother them about unsuitable candidates. I once voted for Roger Babson for president because he wore whiskers which I found a better reason than voting for either Franklin D. Roosevelt or Wendell Willkie.

This year, there is an element of danger in abstention from voting for the Republicans, but this is not so much a matter of conscience as that many will believe that as Eisenhower cannot be defeated, they might as well play golf on election day. I fear we pay too much attention to the presidency and not enough to Congress which, in our political system, is more important. About one-third of the Senate and the whole of the House of Representatives will be elected in 1956 and the citizens really ought to give Congress a great deal of thought.

I find such senators among Republicans as well as Democrats and from my standpoint what is wrong with them is that they sacrifice the best interests of the United States for what must be a temporary popularity. They are fashion-conscious senators, who are now for rock and roll as they were for swing and before that jazz, to use a figure of speech. They switch and change for a headline in the newspapers. Such men exist in the public life of a free, competitive society at all times, but usually the people wise up to them and defeat them. 1956 is a good year for that.

CAB Chairman Rizley Admits Board Capitulated To Airlines' Pressure

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Only a few overheard their whispered conversation, but the Civil Aeronautic Board's Chairman Ross Rizley insisted to Commissioner Joe Adams the other day that their agency, the CAB, had capitulated to pressure from the big airlines.

Rizley was on the witness stand before the House Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee, explaining why the CAB had increased trans-Atlantic passenger rates 10 per cent.

"As I understand it," said Chairman Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn, "your statement is tantamount to capitulation to the scheduled airlines."

"No," Rizley protested. "It was our own airlines, plus Europe, Asia, Africa, and Australia."

"Let's say capitulation to all the airlines," suggested Celler.

There was a hushed, but agitated, conference between Rizley and Adams.

"No, no, no," protested Adams hoarsely.

"Of course we capitulated," Chairman Rizley whispered. "We did, and I have got to say so."

Rizley turned to the committee and finished his testimony.

"That is right," he said for the record.

Secret Senate Deal

It's a strange combination, but a Democratic senator and a Republican cabinet officer have teamed up to block any more liberalization of the social security laws to help widows with disabled children, oldsters and white-collar workers. They are Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia and Secretary Marion Folsom of Health, Education and Welfare.

Byrd even went so far as to call a private meeting of the Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee, a strange maneuver for a Democrat. He asked the Republicans to meet with Secretary Folsom and give him their pledge to hold the line against social security reforms.

At issue are amendments that would grant federal disability insurance for people over 50 years old, lower the retirement age for women from 65 to 62, provide continued survivor benefits to widows with disabled children over 18, and extend social security to more white-collar workers.

The House accepted these amendments by an overwhelming vote but they are now bottled in the Senate Finance Committee, presided over by Byrd. Folsom has been careful not to take a public position against the reforms, but he has been pulling wires privately to block them.

Folsom used to be undersecretary of the treasury and an executive of Eastman Kodak. Today he seems to be looking at social security as a finance man and a big business man rather than the head of a humanitarian department of government.

The proposed social security amendments would be financed by increasing the rate one per cent, half to be contributed by the employers and half to be withheld from employes' pay checks. This would cost big corporations several million dollars, would cost an employe an extra $21 per year maximum.

Ike Agrees To Bottle

Because it's an election year, the Eisenhower administration has ducked taking a public stand against the reforms. Instead, Folsom has put off testifying before the Finance Committee four times. He's finally expected to appear today, but will probably not oppose the bill openly. Instead, he's claiming the bill would be difficult to administer and that it would be all but impossible for doctors to determine disability.

Inside fact is that the Social Security Administration has already worked out plans to administer the new reforms, but Folsom has forbidden his subordinates to testify on this. How simple administration of the reforms whould be is shown by the fact that 5,000 doctors are already determining disability for railroad workers' compensation without any trouble.

Last week, Folsom reported privately to President Eisenhower that the Republicans with Byrd's help would be able to bottle the social security amendments in the Senate Finance Cpmmittee. Folsom went to the White House with Pennsylvania's grim Sen. Ed Martin, top Republican on the Finance Committee, who also gave his assurances.

They promised Ike that the amendments would never come up on the Senate floor, but would be blocked with a minimum of publicity. They promised that the Republicans would vote solidly to kill the reforms and could count on Byrd's vote, plus another possible Democratic vote — Delaware Sen. Allen Frear's.

Some Republicans, facing reelection this year, may cave in, however, rather than be exposed to the glare of publicity.

Father And Son

Congressman Usher Burdick of North Dakota, for 18 years a Republican member of Congress, has been doing some soul-searching as to whether he should join the Democratic party.

Reason is that his son, Quentin, is going to run for the Senate from North Dakota as a Democrat. This would put the two Burdicks on the opposite side of the political fence in a state which is small population-wise.

Burdick, therefore, has been trying to decide whether he should help his son's political career by switching his party affiliation; or whether he should remain a Republican but retire from Congress; or whether he should run again on the ballot of the Republican party even though it means opposing his son.

Farm Bill Will Show President's Legislative Power

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — A conspicuous illustration of the power of the presidency in writing legislation is about to be given the country. For there will be no farm bill enacted into law unless the measures that have passed the House and the Senate are rewritten by a joint Senate-House Committee in the form of a single compromise bill satisfactory to Mr. Eisenhower.

The threat of a veto is meaningful because there is no two-thirds majority in both houses to pass a bill over the President's disapproval. Hence, the factions all know they must make concessions to the presidential viewpoint.

As a matter of fact, many of the senators and representatives cast their votes on specific amendments to the omnibus farm bill with the knowledge that no such provisions would ever become law. They had to show their constituencies, however, that they had made an effort to get the supports on prices that were desired by cotton or wheat or corn or cattle farmers.

Sectional Interests Predominate

The experience of the Senate on the farm bill, with so many close votes and so many contradictions, is indicative of the kind of thing Congress has gone through again and again on tariff legislation in the past. Local interests usually force individual members of Congress to take positive positions which are at variance with the views of other members of the same party. Sectional interests predominate in such a situation, and the president alone looks at the problem as a whole from the viewpoint of all the people rather than of any group.

No better description of this phase of the American legislative process has ever been written than that once penned by Woodrow Wilson, the centennial of whose birth is being celebrated this year. He wrote in his book, "Constitutional Government in the United States:"

"So far as the government itself is concerned, there is but one national voice in the country, and that is the voice of the president. His isolation has quite unexpectedly been his exaltation. The House represents localities, is made up of individuals whose interest is the interest of separate and scattered constituencies, who are drawn together, indeed, under a master, the speaker, but who are controlled by no national force except that of their party, a force outside the government rather than within it.

President Represents Country

"The Senate represents in its turn regions and interests distinguished by many conflicting and contrasted purposes, united only by exterior party organization and a party spirit not generated within the chamber itself. Only the president represents the country as a whole, and the president himself is cooperatively bound to the houses only by the machinery and discipline of party, not as a person and functionary, but as a member of an outside organization which exists quite independently of the executive and legislature."

This correspondent, an undergraduate at Princeton University at the time, heard Mr. Wilson emphasize the above comment in a lecture in the spring of 1909. It was prophetic of the struggle of President Taft later with the Payne-Aldrich Tariff Bill, which had to be rewritten in conference by a Senate-House Joint Committee. Mr. Taft's failure to get a bill that represented the national interest helped to split the Republican party and bring him defeat in 1912.

It is interesting to note that the same problem of presidential influence and power is emerging today with respect to the farm bill.

Basically, the proposed farm legislation is an effort by all its sponsors to bolster the agricultural industry, just as the tariff laws were designed to support the manufacturing industry of the country. The farm groups feel that the federal government must protect them against the ruinous competition brought by world prices and by the uncontrolled production of crops.

Ike's Reaction Interesting

Today all schemes of regulation and support of farm prices — whether they are called "flexible" or "rigid"—aim to maintain high levels of farm income. The power of the government is interjected to help control the law of supply and demand. When politics gets the upper hand, huge surpluses are accumulated and the subsidy to the farmers reaches many billions of dollars, which all taxpayers must pay. The result is not necessarily a reduction of costs to the housewife but a maintenance of farm incomes, irrespective of that consideration.

So with pressure groups influencing the course of government, the only force that can help achieve a balance between producers and consumers is the president. In a campaign year, minority groups exercise an influence out of all proportion to their numbers or their legitimate claims. It will be interesting to observe how much the pressure of votes will affect the President himself and the kind of farm legislation that he will demand as he faces a political revolt in the farm states.

How It Happened

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Arthur "Bugs" Baer is the originator of some of America's most-often-repeated sayings. In the absence of his regular column—"Baering Down On the News"—because of his illness, The Cumberland News is presenting Baer's own explanations of how he came to coin some of the more famous of his sayings.

"He could throw a lamb chop past a wolf."

When I was writing baseball for Mr. Munsey's Washington Times the job gave me the opportunity of going South with Clark Griffith and his Senators.

Unfortunately Griff's idea of the South was a 90-mile safari into Charlottesville in the Blue Ridge mountains, where we spent most of our time huddled around a campfire at home plate.

But it was there I met Walter Johnson, the greatest pitcher of all time. His speed was so terrific that umpires waited until they heard a thud in the catcher's glove and then yelled, "Strike."

When Walter was pitching three thuds were out.

In the spring of 1911 I wrote about the visiting batter who struck out on Johnson's throw to first base to catch a runner napping, giving Walter a strike out and an assist on one throw.

But just to show you what a quick thinker I was —and always have been — Walter was through with baseball before I thought up the paragraph that memorialized his "swift" in men's minds for all time.

That line was, "He could throw a lamb chop past a wolf."

After Minnesota

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

The voters of Minnesota have briskly shaken up the whole political scene in the same way that a child shakes a toy kaledioscope. All the pieces of the political picture have changed position, and it will never look the same again.

As far as Adlai Stevenson is concerned, the big question is, of course, whether the grievous wound he has sustained is mortal. His supporters claim that he can rise, like Sir Andrew Barton, and fight again. Most observers on the sidelines, including Democrats friendly to him, suspect that he is finished.

Angry And Embattled

Stevenson's own mood may turn out to be a factor in the equation. Friends who sat with him Tuesday night, as the disastrous news of Estes Kefauver's victory came in, say that he became increasingly angry and embattled as the evening wore on. His parting words were: "Damn it, bring on the next one, and we'll show them."

The next one, of course, is the Florida primary and the one after that California. It Stevenson's embattled mood is sustained, he just might "show them" in both, which of course he must do to remain in the running. Stevenson's greatest weakness so far is that despite the admirable style and content of many of his speeches, he has been unable to convey to the voters any sense of real emotion about the issues. It has been as though he were hardly personally involved in the campaign at all.

"The crowds listened to him politely, as though he were a professor," one who watched the Minnesota contest has said. "Kefauver spoke simply, even rather boringly, and then answered questions, and went out and shook hands. Steevnson hardly ever did. Stevenson would say that he was for 90 per cent of parity, but that it wasn't the answer to the farm problem, while Kefauver would say he was for 100 per cent and it was the answer."

Money, Workers Needed

Stevenson will be the underdog in Florida and California, an advantage Kefauver has hitherto enjoyed. If Stevenson now shows the fire and fight he has so far lacked, he might pull it off. But as one Stevenson admirer remarked mournfully, "Where are we going to get people to work for us now, at the precinct level? And where are we going to get the dough?"

Since Minnesota, getting the dough, which has previously been one of his great worries, should be easy for Kefauver. For Kefauver must of course now be considered a most serious contender. His special campaign formula — the little-man-against-the-bosses, plus a something - for - everybody - policy line—has been proved to the hilt, and no one is likely to make the mistake of again underestimating his political courage and shrewdness.

Yet the Kefauver formula has its drawbacks. Wherever he goes, he is a threat to the established order of things. His Minnesota triumph was, of course, a kick in the face for the entire Minnesota Democratic leadership, and, as one Democrat remarked, "Leaders in every state are saying to themselves, 'There but for the grace of God go I.'" With the Northern professionals and Southern grandees united against him, it is still difficult to see how Kefauver can get a majority of the delegate votes.

That is one reason why the switchboards at New York's Tammany Hall and the governor's mansion in Albany have been humming ever since Tuesday night, with calls from shaken Stevenson supporters. The current word is that Gov. Averell Harriman can be expected to change from "inactive" status as a candidate, to "fairly active," but that he will not enter any primaries. Any delegate-hunting will be left up to shrewd Tammany leader Carmine De Sapio, who will do what needs to be done quietly, hardly stirring from New York.

Harriman Man To Beat

In the view of some experienced observers, Harriman is, indeed, now the man to beat. The chances of such dark horses as Sen. Kefauver's Minnesota victory thus looks like the portent of a rough, name-calling, vote-catching campaign, very different from the lofty "democratic dialogue" which Adlai Stevenson once envisioned.

Cheese Important During Lenten Season

Hot grilled sandwiches, Welsh Rabbit, au gratin dishes, cheese omelet, souffle or scrambled eggs? Cheese, especially in the Lenten season, takes an important place in main dishes at meals as well as in lunch boxes. Chances are the cheese will be cheddar or cheddar-type because this makes up about 75 per cent of annual U. S. cheese production, according to Mrs. Judith A. Pheil, nutrition specialist, University of Maryland Extension Service.

Though English in origin — first made in the village of Cheddar, Somersetshire, back in the 16th century — cheddar cheese is made and used so widely in this country that it often is called American cheddar cheese.

Made from sweet, whole milk, ranging in color from nearly white to yellow, this popular cheese may be mild, medium or tangy (sharp) in flavor. Aging or curing at controlled temperature for six months to a year or more develops the tang and mellows the texture. The very mild cheddar, cured only the minimum 60 days, costs less to produce. It may be used in combination dishes with such flavorful foods as bacon or ham, onion, tomato and seasonings like mustard, pepper or herbs.

Mrs. Pheil points out that about half of all American cheese is "natural" cheese — that is, made directly from the milk. The remainder is "process" cheese. Process cheese may be made from a blend or combination of one or more kinds of natural cheese. Either natural or process cheddar slices easily, and when broken or sliced, melts and blends easily with other foods with little heat.

Research has shown that pasteurizing milk improves the quality of cheddar and that cheese of uniformly good quality can be made from pasteurized milk by the so-called time-schedule method developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This method systemizes the process and makes it possible to control both the amount of acidity the cheese develops and the rate of development. More than 75 per cent of U. S. cheddar is now made from pasteurized milk by this method.

Cheese Important During Lenten Season

Hot grilled sandwiches, Welsh Rabbit, au gratin dishes, cheese omelet, souffle or scrambled eggs? Cheese, especially in the Lenten season, takes an important place in main dishes at meals as well as in lunch boxes. Chances are the cheese will be cheddar or cheddar-type because this makes up about 75 per cent of annual U. S. cheese production, according to Mrs. Judith A. Pheil, nutrition specialist, University of Maryland Extension Service.

Though English in origin — first made in the village of Cheddar, Somersetshire, back in the 16th century — cheddar cheese is made and used so widely in this country that it often is called American cheddar cheese.

Made from sweet, whole milk, ranging in color from nearly white to yellow, this popular cheese may be mild, medium or tangy (sharp) in flavor. Aging or curing at controlled temperature for six months to a year or more develops the tang and mellows the texture. The very mild cheddar, cured only the minimum 60 days, costs less to produce. It may be used in combination dishes with such flavorful foods as bacon or ham, onion, tomato and seasonings like mustard, pepper or herbs.

Mrs. Pheil points out that about half of all American cheese is "natural" cheese — that is, made directly from the milk. The remainder is "process" cheese. Process cheese may be made from a blend or combination of one or more kinds of natural cheese. Either natural or process cheddar slices easily, and when broken or sliced, melts and blends easily with other foods with little heat.

Research has shown that pasteurizing milk improves the quality of cheddar and that cheese of uniformly good quality can be made from pasteurized milk by the so-called time-schedule method developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This method systemizes the process and makes it possible to control both the amount of acidity the cheese develops and the rate of development. More than 75 per cent of U. S. cheddar is now made from pasteurized milk by this method.

The largest municipally owned and operated transit system in the United States is the New York City system.

Temperature Of Zero For Home Freezers

COLLEGE PARK—Zero °F. is the temperature recommended for foods in home freezers, the U. S. Department of Agriculture says in response to frequent inquiries. Research has shown that at temperatures above zero foods don't hold quality satisfactorily. On the other hand, at lower temperatures the home food supply doesn't keep enough better to be worth the extra operating expense.

But home freezer owners should understand that setting the temperature-indicator to zero doesn't insure that the freezer interior will be uniformly zero. Temperatures vary in different parts of the freezer. To know where to set the indicator to make sure none of the food is stored above zero, set a thermometer in various locations inside and record temperatures.

Tests of home-freezer temperatures made at USDA show that in a chest-type freezer the space under the lid is likely to be warmer than the rest of the interior. For example, when the space around the middle of a chest-type freezer is zero, the top third of the storage compartment and the top fourth of the freezing compartment probably will be above zero—that is, too warm to keep frozen food at its best.

The same is true generally of upright freezers with refrigerated walls, except that probably the space just inside the door will be warmer. In contrast, in upright freezers with refrigerated shelves the top shelf is likely to be coldest; and the bottom, near the compressor, warmest.

Some manufacturers recommend turning the indicator to its coldest position several hours before a load of food is to be frozen. Then the extra chill of the food already in storage will offset the warmth brought in by the unfrozen food.

Jelly Roll For Lunch Box Treat

As a suggestion to really surprise your family next time you pack lunches, slip in a piece of moist, taste pleasing jelly roll.

Use lard, a versatile cooking shortening, when making this lunch box wonder. Lard produces cakes with a fine crumb and feathery lightness which retain their moist, firm texture.

Jelly Roll

- 1½ cups sifted enriched flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- 3 eggs
- 1⅛ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- ¾ cup scalded milk
- 2 tablespoons lard
- 1 glass plum jelly
- 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar

Sift flour with baking powder. Separate eggs. Beat whites until stiff and yolks until creamy, then fold together. Gradually add sugar, then flour mixture, then vanilla and last the hot milk combined with lard. Pour into a jelly roll pan 11 x 17 inches and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Turn onto a slightly dampened cloth. Trim ½ inch of crust from sides. Spread with jelly and roll. Dust with confectioners' sugar. Yield: 10 to 12 servings.

Hearty Soup For Supper

Bowls of hearty, steaming soup served with thick slices of crunchy bread mean good eating for supper. This unusual soup is rich with diced pork and cream-style corn.

Pork and Vegetable Soup

1½ pounds diced pork; 2 cups chopped onions; 1 teaspoon salt; ½ cup catsup; 1 10½ oz. can mushroom soup; 2 soup cans water; 1 potato, diced; 3 carrots, diced; 2 cups chopped cabbage; 1 No. 303 can cream-style corn; ⅛ teaspoon celery salt; 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce; ½ teaspoon curry powder.

Cut some fat from pork cubes and fry out in a large, heavy saucepan. Remove pieces and brown pork cubes. Push pork to one side and cook onions until yellow. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer 1 hour or until meat is tender. 6 to 8 servings.

Salmon-Cheese Casserole

- 1 can (1 lb.) asparagus, lima beans or spinach, well drained
- 1 can (1 lb.) salmon
- ½ stick (¼ cup) butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons grated onion
- ¼ cup flour
- ¾ teaspoon dry mustard
- Milk
- ¾ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ pound (about 1 cup) shredded processed American cheese
- Paprika

Arrange drained asparagus, lima beans or spinach in bottom of 1½-quart baking dish. Drain and measure salmon liquid, adding enough milk to make 1⅛ cups; reserve. Flake salmon, removing any skin and small bones; spread salmon over asparagus, lima beans or spinach. Melt butter or margarine in medium-sized saucepan; add onion and cook 3 minutes. Blend in flour and mustard; gradually stir in milk mixture and Worcestershire sauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils 1 minute. Add cheese and stir until cheese melts. Pour cheese sauce over salmon. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes, or until bubbling and brown.

Proven Varieties Best For Tomato Production

In producing tomatoes for market, selection of proper varieties is of major importance, the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service today reminded farmers planning commercial production of tomatoes this year.

"The choice of varieties is an important factor in successful tomato production and marketing," A. A. Duncan, vegetable crop specialist at the University of Maryland said. "In established tomato growing sections, varieties that are well adapted to the respective areas have been demonstrated through research and practical experience."

"Except for small experimental plantings of possibly superior varieties new to the section, growers would do well to confine production to those which have proved to be adapted to their area and possess the most desirable market qualities."

"Tomatoes larger than 3¼ inches in diameter are often badly ridged over the shoulders or are otherwise misshapen and will seldom command as high a price as those that range from 2¼ to 3¼ inches in diameter," said Duncan.

Information on tomato varieties suitable for commercial production in Maryland may be obtained from county agents. Request Maryland Extension Service Fact Sheet No. 1. Experiment stations and seedmen are continually breeding new varieties and selecting improved strains of existing varieties. Some of these may be adapted to your area. Tomato varieties recommended for commercial production in Maryland are Rutgers, Chesapeake, Moreton Hybrid, and Improved Garden State.

Here's a quick, easy, foolproof way to make smart individual tart shells. Serve with luncheon or buffet dinner or as a wonderful family dessert surprise.

TART SHELLS

1 pkg. Pie Crust Mix
4-5 tablespoons cold water
8 6" circles cut from heavy aluminum foil

Empty contents of package into bowl and sprinkle with cold water. Mix with fork. Form into ball and divide in half. Roll each half to ⅛" thickness. Cut pastry in circles about 6" in diameter. Key Stocks Pace Market To Another Record High

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP) — Strong pivotal stocks sent the market up today to a new record high.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were frequent, and some were quite extensive. Southern Railway, for instance shot ahead 6¾ at 121½. Losses were small and not particularly concentrated in any one area.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained $1.70, best in a couple of weeks. It closed at $190.20, another new record high. The average was at record peaks Tuesday, slipped back $1.30 yesterday, and more than regained that loss today.

The industrial component of the average was up $1.50 at $271.30, rails were ahead $2.70 at a new high since 1929 of $146.60, and utilities were up 30 cents at $74.90.

The market was a little narrower than yesterday with 1,179 issues traded of which 565 advanced and 364 declined. There were 61 new highs and 9 new lows for 1955-56.

Volume at 2,650,000 shares was well under yesterday's 2,930,000 shares.

Key Stocks Pace Market To Another Record High

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP) — Strong pivotal stocks sent the market up today to a new record high.

Strength was well distributed but chiefly lodged in the steels, oils, and railroads.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were frequent, and some were quite extensive. Southern Railway, for instance shot ahead 6¾ at 121½. Losses were small and not particularly concentrated in any one area.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained $1.70, best in a couple of weeks. It closed at $190.20, another new record high. The average was at record peaks Tuesday, slipped back $1.30 yesterday, and more than regained that loss today.

The industrial component of the average was up $1.50 at $271.30, rails were ahead $2.70 at a new high since 1929 of $146.60, and utilities were up 30 cents at $74.90.

The market was a little narrower than yesterday with 1,179 issues traded of which 565 advanced and 364 declined. There were 61 new highs and 9 new lows for 1955-56.

Volume at 2,650,000 shares was well under yesterday's 2,930,000 shares.

Piedmont-Pax Game Opens State Tourney At Morgantown

Lions Defend Long Winning Streak Today

Semi-Final Foe Won "B" Title In 1954; Game Set For 1 P.M.

Piedmont High School's basketeers are hoping that "13" is their lucky number when they attempt to extend their winning string to that many games in the semi-final round of the West Virginia Class "B" championship tourney today at West Virginia University's field house in Morgantown.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Lions will do battle with Pax High School from Fayette County, the same school they met in the finals of the state event in 1954, when they were defeated by the score of 63-54 after having reeled off a dozen consecutive triumphs.

Two years ago Piedmont closed its regular campaign with a five-game winning streak and a 19-2 record. The Lions knocked off Elk Garden, Fort Ashby and Ridgeley in the sectional tourney, took the measure of Wardensville and Petersburg in the regional and whipped Rowlesburg and Chester before bowing to Pax.

Started Streak Jan. 31

The present aggregation started its victory string on January 31, bagged six in a row and closed the regular season with a 15-5 mark. Flyers Wallop St. Francis To Tune Of 89-58

Louisville In Finals 5th Time After Win Over St. Joe's, 89-79

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP)—Dayton finally got a first rate performance from "Goliath" Bill Uhl on the Madison Square Garden Court tonight and routed St. Francis of Brooklyn 89-58 in the semi-finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament. Dayton will meet Louisville, 89-79 winner over St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in Saturday's final.

Winners Meet Saturday

Top-seeded Dayton, an NIT finalist for the fourth time in five attempts but never a winner, and second ranked Louisville will play for the title Saturday afternoon before a nationwide television audience. St. Joseph's and St. Francis will clash in a consolation game.

Both finalists are ranked among the nation's top ten college teams. Dayton was third in the final Associated Press ranking poll, and Louisville sixth.

Uhl didn't threaten any scoring records, but 16,125 Garden fans got an idea of how good the seven-footer can be at times. He tallied 13 points before retiring with 12 minutes to go, passed off frequently, defended well against St. Francis' sophomore Al Inniss and grabbed his share of the rebounds. Palmer, specializing in tap-ins, and Jim Paxson each scored 18 points for Dayton.

Tony D'Elia, getting most of his points late in the game, led St. Francis with 16, four more than Inniss.

Mannix Is Injured

Dan Mannix, St. Francis captain and best defensive player, went out after 11 minutes of play on a sprained ankle and the Terriers soon collapsed. For 13 minutes it was a whale of a tussle.

Then Paxson connected for seven straight points, Uhl and Carmen Riazzi added five more and Dayton led 31-20. At the half it was 38-22. With a dizzy display of running, passing and shooting, the Flyers stretched their lead to 63-2?.

Then Dayton Coach Tommy Blackburn pulled out his regulars and finished with a full team of substitutes. Against this bunch, St. Francis doubled its score but was able to trim only three points off Dayton's margin.

In Final 5th Time

It was the first time in five invitation tournaments that Louisville had reached the final and for a while it looked as though it would be one of the easiest victories the tournament had seen in its 19 runnings. But St. Joseph's, after falling 22 points behind early in the second half, turned on its speed, defended more aggressively and made a game of it.

Tyra, double-timed all through the first half, was guarded more loosely in the late stages and piled up 29 points to top both teams. In addition, he did an outstanding job of rebounding, with the aid of Bill Darragh.

Owls Defeated By Hawkeyes In 83-76 Battle

Lear Chalks Up 32 For Temple; Logan 36 Points For Iowa

EVANSTON, Ill., March 22 (AP)—San Francisco's defending champion Dons let a 21-point lead melt to six points, but eventually ground to their 54th straight victory with an 86-68 decision over scrappy Southern Methodist in the semi-finals of the NCAA Basketball tourney tonight.

EVANSTON, Ill., March 22 (AP)—Iowa's Hawkeyes withstood a tremendous second-half show by Temple's Hal (King Lear and edged the Owls 83-76 in their Eastern semi-final game of the NCAA Basketball Tourney tonight.

San Francisco's defending champion Dons met Southern Methodist in the Western semi-final before a capacity 10,500 at McGaw Memorial Hall in the second game.

Lear popped in 32 points, 24 coming in the last half, and with five minutes of the game left rammed in four straight baskets which cut Iowa's lead to four points, 74-70.

However, Temple's zone defense couldn't contain Iowa's 6-6 Bill Logan, who was the game's high scorer with 36 points. Logan got 24 points in the first half which ended 39-36 in Iowa's favor.

Score Tied Six Times

The lead changed six times and the score was tied six times before Iowa finally got the game under control by a 12-point margin, 56-44, after the first seven minutes of the second half.

Rodgers kept the Owls going with 18 of his 28 points total coming in the first half.

Iowa, extending its season mark to 20-5, performed steadily, if not brilliantly, against Temple, which suffered its third defeat against 26 victories for the campaign.

Baltimore Is Mentioned In Boxing Investigation

Hansford Testifies He Was Told To Lose There To McAllister

LOS ANGELES, March 22 (AP)—California's investigation of boxing and wrestling took on a coast-to-coast complexion today as a former manager and a former boxer testified they had instructions to throw fights.

Soldier Eddie Stanley, a former boxer who managed in the 40's, told the governor's investigating committee that he took a fighter to Portland to box heavyweight Joe Kahut with orders to "get home early."

Told To Lose Fights

Georgie Hansford, ex-California boxer, testified he was instructed to lose fights in Newark and Baltimore in 1945-46. Also, he said, he fought fixed fights in the West.

Both Stanley and Hansford testified they received instructions from Babe McCoy, the 300-pound matchmaker of the Olympic Auditorium here. McCoy earlier in the week-long hearing was named by Tommy Campbell, former lightweight contender, as the man who gave instructions for him to lose fights to Art Aragon here and to Del Flanagan in Minneapolis.

Hansford, 42, testified that when he went East in 1945 he was told to lose to Allie Stolz and Jimmy McAllister in the fights at Newark and Baltimore. He said he received the "dive" instructions from a Chickie Bogad who handled him in the East. The ring record book shows Hansford lost to Stolz on Dec. 26, 1945, and McAllister on Jan. 31, 1946.

Set Up Bouts For Him

Hansford said in 1944 he had attempted a comeback and that McCoy and a series of managers set up fights for him in which he was told at least a half dozen times "not to cut up the other fighter" and "in what round I was supposed to lose."

Interspersed were a number of "shooting matches" which was the fighter's description of an honest bout.

Hansford said he lost five bouts and won one in which there were arrangements prior to the fights.

Redlegs Win, 10-3

ORLANDO, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Righthander Art Fowler went the distance for the Cincinnati Reds today and despite weakening in the late innings breezed to a 10-3 victory over Washington.

The Reds pounded Dick Brodowski for 8 of their 10 hits in the five innings he pitched. Fowler allowed 11 hits, giving up 7 in the last three innings.

Humez Favored To Beat Jones

Frenchman Is 8-5 Choice At Garden

On the strength of his unbeaten streak of 17, his reputation overseas, and his apparent know how, the 28-year-old Humez has been made the 8-5 favorite.

The nation's boxing fans will get a chance to evaluate Humez via the coast to coast telecast and broadcast (NBC-TV-radio, 10 p.m. EST).

Jones, of Yonkers, N.Y., also is 28, experienced and ranked the No. 8 contender. Humez is No. 2 behind ex-champion Carl (Bobo) Olson.

Humez' last loss was a controversial sixth round knockout in Paris, Oct. 23, 1953, by Ernie (The Rock) Durando of Bayonne, N.J. Far behind on points, Durando tagged Charley with the right to the jaw to end the bout. There was a controversy over the count. Humez said he was up at nine. The referee said 10 and that was that.

Clout Four Homers, Turley Is Pounded

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals used four home runs to wallop the New York Yankees 7-5 today. Red Schoendienst, Wally Moon, Stan Musial and rookie catcher Bob Rand socked the circuits, each with the bases empty.

The crowd of 3,748 saw Bob Turley take his third successive pounding of the spring, all by the Redbirds. The righthander gave up three runs on six hits, including Schoendienst's rap in the first inning. He hurled six frames.

Rookie Jim DePalo was the victim of the Moon and Musial blasts in the seventh and eighth, respectively. Gerry Staley, former Cardinal righthander, was clipped by Rand in the ninth.

Vinegar Bend Mizell pitched six innings for St. Louis and gave up seven hits good for three runs.

Ted Hopes To Play Exhibition Games

SARASOTA, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Trainer Jack Fadden of the Boston Red Sox said today Ted Williams has aggravated a pulled muscle in his groin but should be able to play in exhibition games again "in a day or two."

The injury "is not serious but players of his age (37) do not snap back as they would have 15 years earlier," Fadden said.

He described Williams as "anxious to play."

Orioles Must Wear Helmets

Paul Richards Acts After Pope Beaning

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., March 22 (AP)—Manager Paul Richards today followed up yesterday's beaning of Outfielder Dave Pope with an order that all Baltimore Orioles must wear protective helmets while hitting in games.

The Orioles have had the helmets available, but Richards has left it up to the individual whether he wants to wear one.

"It's a fallacy to think it's a lack of courage to wear a helmet," said Richards. "I've said before that any pitch in baseball can mean death and it takes guts to go up to the plate and dig in.

"From now on, it's an absolute order to wear a helmet."

Pope was hit in the back of his head on a pitch by Dick Tomanek in yesterday's exhibition game with the Cleveland Indians. He spent several hours in a Phoenix hospital where X-Rays disclosed no serious injury.

"It was close enough for me," said the Negro outfielder, "I'll wear that big helmet from now on."

Six Rookies Are Farmed By Nats

ORLANDO, Fla., March 22 (AP)—The Washington Senators trimmed six rookies from their roster today. Three were sent to Chattanooga of the Southern Association and three more to Charlotte of the South Atlantic League.

Pitchers John Valmas, a 25-game winner with Orlando, Fla., last season; Doug Clark, 4-8 with Charlotte last year, and Dick Hydes, 8-6 with Chattanooga, were sent to Chattanooga. All are righthanders.

New York Giants Defeat Cubs, 8-1

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 22 (AP)—Home runs by Willie Mays, Daryl Spencer and rookie shortstop Eddie Bressoud powered the New York Giants to an 8-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs in a cactus league game today.

Mays connected with two on to climax a four-run eighth inning rally. Bressoud and Spencer hit their homers in the first inning to help the Giants to an early three-run lead.

Frenchman Is 8-5 Choice At Garden

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP) — Charley Humez, French holder of the European middleweight crown, opens his U. S. bid for a shot at the world title tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden when he meets Ralph (Tiger) Jones, spoiler of the 160-pound class.

On the strength of his unbeaten streak of 17, his reputation overseas, and his apparent know how, the 28-year-old Humez has been made the 8-5 favorite.

Jones, of Yonkers, N.Y., also is 28, experienced and ranked the No. 8 contender. Humez is No. 2 behind ex-champion Carl (Bobo) Olson.

Clout Four Homers, Turley Is Pounded

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals used four home runs to wallop the New York Yankees 7-5 today. Red Schoendienst, Wally Moon, Stan Musial and rookie catcher Bob Rand socked the circuits, each with the bases empty.

The crowd of 3,748 saw Bob Turley take his third successive pounding of the spring, all by the Redbirds. The righthander gave up three runs on six hits, including Schoendienst's rap in the first inning. He hurled six frames.

Rookie Jim DePalo was the victim of the Moon and Musial blasts in the seventh and eighth, respectively. Gerry Staley, former Cardinal righthander, was clipped by Rand in the ninth.

Vinegar Bend Mizell pitched six innings for St. Louis and gave up seven hits good for three runs.

Ted Hopes To Play Exhibition Games

SARASOTA, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Trainer Jack Fadden of the Boston Red Sox said today Ted Williams has aggravated a pulled muscle in his groin but should be able to play in exhibition games again "in a day or two."

The injury "is not serious but players of his age (37) do not snap back as they would have 15 years earlier," Fadden said.

He described Williams as "anxious to play."

Orioles Must Wear Helmets

Paul Richards Acts After Pope Beaning

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., March 22 (AP)—Manager Paul Richards today followed up yesterday's beaning of Outfielder Dave Pope with an order that all Baltimore Orioles must wear protective helmets while hitting in games.

The Orioles have had the helmets available, but Richards has left it up to the individual whether he wants to wear one.

"It's a fallacy to think it's a lack of courage to wear a helmet," said Richards. "I've said before that any pitch in baseball can mean death and it takes guts to go up to the plate and dig in.

"From now on, it's an absolute order to wear a helmet."

Pope was hit in the back of his head on a pitch by Dick Tomanek in yesterday's exhibition game with the Cleveland Indians. He spent several hours in a Phoenix hospital where X-Rays disclosed no serious injury.

"It was close enough for me," said the Negro outfielder, "I'll wear that big helmet from now on."

Six Rookies Are Farmed By Nats

ORLANDO, Fla., March 22 (AP)—The Washington Senators trimmed six rookies from their roster today. Three were sent to Chattanooga of the Southern Association and three more to Charlotte of the South Atlantic League.

Pitchers John Valmas, a 25-game winner with Orlando, Fla., last season; Doug Clark, 4-8 with Charlotte last year, and Dick Hydes, 8-6 with Chattanooga, were sent to Chattanooga. All are righthanders.

Charlotte got catcher Jim Schindler, inactive last season; pitcher Gilberto Hooker from Managua, Nicaragua, with no previous experience in organized ranks, and outfielder Bob Allison, former University of Kansas football player who batted .256 with Hagerstown, Md., last year.

New York Giants Defeat Cubs, 8-1

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 22 (AP)—Home runs by Willie Mays, Daryl Spencer and rookie shortstop Eddie Bressoud powered the New York Giants to an 8-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs in a cactus league game today.

Mays connected with two on to climax a four-run eighth inning rally. Bressoud and Spencer hit their homers in the first inning to help the Giants to an early three-run lead.

The lone Cub run came on a homer by veteran outfielder Hank Sauer in the second inning.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 22 (INS)—Every time I start reading at night and get deep in a book until the wee hours, I say "never again!" That's what happened with "Lucy Crown" until I'd practically read it all the way through.

Now I am told that Irwin Shaw, the author, wants Rosalind Russell to make the picture for Hecht-Lancaster after she finishes "Auntie Mame." Roz tells me that the writers have finished the first draft of "Auntie Mame" and she likes the script.

She was also approached to play the Widow Tebbs in "Andersonville." But, gee whiz, what a bath that character would have to have! You just couldn't show her in motion pictures the way she is in Mackinlay Kantor's book. I believe Jerry Wald, who is producing it, has the idea of making the widow a fun loving, gay woman without any of her extra-curricular activities.

You can't lose faith in Hollywood when things happen as they did at Paramount a few days ago. Then you know there's still a chance for young players.

Rod Steiger happened to meet a girl named Elaine Aiken, who had studied with him at the Actor's Studio and who played a small bit in summer stock. He took her to Paramount. Pat Duggan took one look at her and said, "Will you test right now?"

She did, and that very day was signed for the femme lead with Jack Palance and Anthony Perkins in "The Lonely Man."

Ken Murray tells me that he and Marie Wilson have signed a contract with the New Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas for a million dollars for his stage show, "Blackouts," until 1960.

"We go back to Vegas in August," said Ken, "and we also have an offer for a TV show and two studios are negotiating with us for the motion picture. Little did Marie and I think when we opened "Blackouts" in 1942 that in 1956 our show still would be drawing customers! And you helped put it over in the early days, Louella."

A warm and great tribute to Maurice Chevalier was the turn-out of top stars to greet him at the party Pat and Charlie Bayer gave in his honor. Maurice came here to sing "Something's Gotta Give," one of the competing songs at the Academy Awards.

As Gary Cooper, Mary Pickford, Buddy Rogers, Benita and Ronald Colman, Clifton Webb, Frances Dee, Joel McCrea, Jack Benny, Florence Eldridge, Fredric March, Groucho Marx, Gracie Allen and George Burns, Ginger Rogers and Rosalind Russell walked by, Maurice said: "The thing that amazes me in Hollywood is that after 22 years the stars who were tops when I was here are still tops!

"This Hollywood climate must be wonderful," he said, "because none of them seem to have aged much. The years have treated them all so kindly."

I'm glad that Joan Evans' career seems to be on the upgrade again. Joan got off to a flying start when she was teamed with Farley Granger for Sam Goldwyn, then she didn't do very well for a time.

She's on the MGM lot this week to make a test for Producer Charles Schnee for the best part of her life in "Eagles Have Wings." "I'm keeping my fingers crossed," Joan said hopefully.

She was called to Schnee's attention by Gerald Mayer, associate producer on TV's "Millionaire" show who told Schnee how excellent Joan is in "The Jane Costello story," a chapter of "Millionaire."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Phyllis Hudson almost had pneumonia and hasn't been out of the house since she came home from New York. Rock has returned from location in Nogales, and Phyllis says she was never so glad to see anyone in her life.

The attractive brunette Bob Fellows has been seeing is Donna Stewart. Rumors are that she'll be the next Mrs. Fellows.

Some of the stars not here 22 years ago when Maurice Chevalier was king pin at Paramount—Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer, Jeanne Crain and Paul Brinkman, Veronique Passani and Gregory Peck, Sylvia and Danny Kaye, Ann Miller, Kirk Douglas and Zsa Zsa Gabor were at the Charles Boyer party to do honor to Maurice.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has shown great interest in a campaign to improve and modernize the nation's homes. He has designated 1956 as "Home Improvement Year." By law the Federal Housing Administration is authorized to guarantee home repair and improvement loans as well as insure mortgages for new home construction.

One of the most important aids to fulfilling the desire to own a home or to modernize the house in which we live is the FHA. Its chief contribution to our economy is in making credit available for home buyers and owners. The FHA actually has never made a loan, what it does is to insure private lenders against loss.

FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason has been kind enough to furnish me with some figures which, I am certain, will be of interest to the residents of the Sixth Maryland District. He informs me that since its inception, FHA has made it possible for four million families to buy their homes. At the same time 19 million FHA-insured loans have been advanced to home owners to help them repair or improve their homes.

The figures for our congressional district show that 10,000 homes have been financed with the aid of FHA; and 47,000 FHA home improvement loans have been made. The Commissioner also informed me that since I took office in January 1953 a total of 1,500 mortgages insured for a total of $17-½ million dollars in our five counties have been handled by FHA. Our citizens obtained 17,000 FHA-insured home improvement loans valued at $9-¼ million during the same period.

I have been asked if the pending retirement of Secretary McKay from his post at the Interior Department will affect the highway program in the Hancock-North Branch area. I see no reason for any change since our agreement was reached with the staff and a new secretary is unlikely to change the policy already established.

We have continued to extend our good offices to those who are at work on the many problems involved in providing metropolitan Washington with adequate transportation facilities. It is hoped that the plan finally accepted by the Congress will prove satisfactory and will meet the needs of the community.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 22 (INS)—Every time I start reading at night and get deep in a book until the wee hours, I say "never again!" That's what happened with "Lucy Crown" until I'd practically read it all the way through.

Now I am told that Irwin Shaw, the author, wants Rosalind Russell to make the picture for Hecht-Lancaster after she finishes "Auntie Mame." Roz tells me that the writers have finished the first draft of "Auntie Mame" and she likes the script.

She was also approached to play the Widow Tebbs in "Andersonville." But, gee whiz, what a bath that character would have to have! You just couldn't show her in motion pictures the way she is in Mackinlay Kantor's book. I believe Jerry Wald, who is producing it, has the idea of making the widow a fun loving, gay woman without any of her extra-curricular activities.

You can't lose faith in Hollywood when things happen as they did at Paramount a few days ago. Then you know there's still a chance for young players.

Rod Steiger happened to meet a girl named Elaine Aiken, who had studied with him at the Actor's Studio and who played a small bit in summer stock. He took her to Paramount. Pat Duggan took one look at her and said, "Will you test right now?"

She did, and that very day was signed for the femme lead with Jack Palance and Anthony Perkins in "The Lonely Man."

Ken Murray tells me that he and Marie Wilson have signed a contract with the New Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas for a million dollars for his stage show, "Blackouts," until 1960.

"We go back to Vegas in August," said Ken, "and we also have an offer for a TV show and two studios are negotiating with us for the motion picture. Little did Marie and I think when we opened "Blackouts" in 1942 that in 1956 our show still would be drawing customers! And you helped put it over in the early days, Louella."

A warm and great tribute to Maurice Chevalier was the turn-out of top stars to greet him at the party Pat and Charlie Bayer gave in his honor. Maurice came here to sing "Something's Gotta' Give," one of the competing songs at the Academy Awards.

As Gary Cooper, Mary Pickford, Buddy Rogers, Benita and Ronald Colman, Clifton Webb, Frances Dee, Joel McCrea, Jack Benny, Florence Eldridge, Fredric March, Groucho Marx, Gracie Allen and George Burns, Ginger Rogers and Rosalind Russell walked by, Maurice said: "The thing that amazes me in Hollywood is that after 22 years the stars who were tops when I was here are still tops!

"This Hollywood climate must be wonderful," he said, "because none of them seem to have aged much. The years have treated them all so kindly."

I'm glad that Joan Evans' career seems to be on the upgrade again. Joan got off to a flying start when she was teamed with Farley Granger for Sam Goldwyn, then she didn't do very well for a time.

She's on the MGM lot this week to make a test for Producer Charles Schnee for the best part of her life in "Eagles Have Wings." "I'm keeping my fingers crossed," Joan said hopefully.

She was called to Schnee's attention by Gerald Mayer, associate producer on TV's "Millionaire" show who told Schnee how excellent Joan is in "The Jane Costello story," a chapter of "Millionaire."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Phyllis Hudson almost had pneumonia and hasn't been out of the house since she came home from New York. Rock has returned from location in Nogales, and Phyllis says she was never so glad to see anyone in her life.

The attractive brunette Bob Fellows has been seeing is Donna Stewart. Rumors are that she'll be the next Mrs. Fellows.

Some of the stars not here 22 years ago when Maurice Chevalier was king pin at Paramount—Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer, Jeanne Crain and Paul Brinkman, Veronique Passani and Gregory Peck, Sylvia and Danny Kaye, Ann Miller, Kirk Douglas and Zsa Zsa Gabor were at the Charles Boyer party to do honor to Maurice.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has shown great interest in a campaign to improve and modernize the nation's homes. He has designated 1956 as "Home Improvement Year." By law the Federal Housing Administration is authorized to guarantee home repair and improvement loans as well as insure mortgages for new home construction.

One of the most important aids to fulfilling the desire to own a home or to modernize the house in which we live is the FHA. Its chief contribution to our economy is in making credit available for home buyers and owners. The FHA actually has never made a loan, what it does is to insure private lenders against loss.

FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason has been kind enough to furnish me with some figures which, I am certain, will be of interest to the residents of the Sixth Maryland District. He informs me that since its inception, FHA has made it possible for four million families to buy their homes. At the same time 19 million FHA-insured loans have been advanced to home owners to help them repair or improve their homes.

The figures for our congressional district show that 10,000 homes have been financed with the aid of FHA; and 47,000 FHA home improvement loans have been made. The Commissioner also informed me that since I took office in January 1953 a total of 1,500 mortgages insured for a total of $17-½ million dollars in our five counties have been handled by FHA. Our citizens obtained 17,000 FHA-insured home improvement loans valued at $9-¼ million during the same period.

I have been asked if the pending retirement of Secretary McKay from his post at the Interior Department will affect the highway program in the Hancock-North Branch area. I see no reason for any change since our agreement was reached with the staff and a new secretary is unlikely to change the policy already established.

We have continued to extend our good offices to those who are at work on the many problems involved in providing metropolitan Washington with adequate transportation facilities. It is hoped that the plan finally accepted by the Congress will prove satisfactory and will meet the needs of the community.

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Death Of A Humorist

Under a dour exterior, Fred Allen was the kindliest man imaginable. Swarms of out-of-work actors descended on him regularly for handouts which were never refused. There was one actor who put the bite on him every Sunday after church. One Sunday the guy didn't show up and Fred got so worried he went looking for him.

The radio feud between Jack Benny and Fred Allen was legendary, but actually the two men were close friends and their admiration for each other was boundless. But this didn't prevent them from heckling each other unmercifully on stage. Once Benny was appearing on the Paramount stage and Allen sat in the front row and hurled one witty insult after another at his old friend. After one quip, Beny, nonplussed, waved a 20 dollar bill at the audience and offered it to anyone who could top Allen's last gag. Instantly Allen was on his feet, topped his own gag with a better one, and walked up and claimed the 20 dollars.

Fred was a wit's wit. There is not a humorist alive who did not admire him extravagantly, but none imitated him because they couldn't. His was a wonderfully original and well-stocked mind and he had the gift of bringing two frightfully irrelevant things into the same sentence. It was the humor of the ludicrous and a very penetrating wit it was but it does not reproduce well.

His humor was very much of the moment. I remember having lunch with Fred once just after the first atom bomb had gone off at Bikini and had proved to be a bit of a dud. I asked him if he'd heard the broadcast and he said, "Yes, nothing disappeared but the OPA." Well, the OPA had gone out of existence that weekend and it was a very funny remark then, but it doesn't make much sense today. I bring it up only as an example of the way Fred could take two totally unrelated subjects and combine them into one fast quip.

Even his prose style defied imitation. He had a horror of cliche and every sentence that came from his lips had a newly minted freshness that was unique, even among very literate men. To him, even "hello" or any other ordinary salutation, was a cliche and he avoided any form of routine greeting. He'd greet you, on say, a hot day with: "It's so hot out I could take my skin off and sit around in my bones."

In his early days he billed himself as the world's worst juggler and he just about was. He'd keep dropping the Indian clubs and to cover his confusion he'd make wise cracks that would convulse the audience. Actually, Fred was the last of three great American humorists who started the same way. The other two were W. C. Fields, who was a little better juggler than Fred, but still no world beater, and Will Rogers, whose rope act was pretty fair, but not much better than that. All used wise cracks to cover their inadequacies with the props and grew into national institutions.

Fred's death came as a particularly terrible shock to me because he took such very good care of his health. He didn't drink or smoke and his diet was of such austerity that a rabbit would find it dull. In fact I always thought he'd live to be 103. His health faddism was a rich source of amusement to his friends. He had high blood pressure and he had consulted so many doctors and read so many books on the subject he knew more about it than they did.

Any sort of new medical fad would receive his most earnest attention. Once in Florida he stumbled on a cult that believed in fasting as a cure-all for everything. People subsisted on nothing but distilled water for weeks. Fred was fascinated by the project and its effect on the patients.

He was a very simple man. For decades, although he was a millionaire, he lived in a little apartment on West 58th Street. He used to eat lunch every day at the corner drugstore. He never owned a car and never learned to drive. It wasn't parsimony; it was simply that luxury didn't mean anything to him. He never got away from the common people and he had a wide acquaintanceship in his little neighborhood with delicatessen store proprietors, shopkeepers and local cops.

His kindliness was fabulous. Once a delicatessen store proprietor, a friend of his, lost his liquor license because gamblers had been hanging out there. Fred bought the place, got a liquor license in his own name and turned it over to his friend to run. At the time of his death he was working on his autobiography and he kept looking up old friends of his vaudeville days for material. Every time he found one of these old chums, most of them down on their luck, it cost him the price of a new suit. He loathed sham of any sort and he considered the broadcasting in-

Television And Radio

Death Of A Humorist

Under a dour exterior, Fred Allen was the kindliest man imaginable. Swarms of out-of-work actors descended on him regularly for handouts which were never refused. There was one actor who put the bite on him every Sunday after church. One Sunday the guy didn't show up and Fred got so worried he went looking for him.

The radio feud between Jack Benny and Fred Allen was legendary, but actually the two men were close friends and their admiration for each other was boundless. But this didn't prevent them from heckling each other unmercifully on stage. Once Benny was appearing on the Paramount stage and Allen sat in the front row and hurled one witty insult after another at his old friend. After one quip, Beny, nonplussed, waved a 20 dollar bill at the audience and offered it to anyone who could top Allen's last gag. Instantly Allen was on his feet, topped his own gag with a better one, and walked up and claimed the 20 dollars.

Fred was a wit's wit. There is not a humorist alive who did not admire him extravagantly, but none imitated him because they couldn't. His was a wonderfully original and well-stocked mind and he had the gift of bringing two frightfully irrelevant things into the same sentence. It was the humor of the ludicrous and a very penetrating wit it was but it does not reproduce well.

His humor was very much of the moment. I remember having lunch with Fred once just after the first atom bomb had gone off at Bikini and had proved to be a bit of a dud. I asked him if he'd heard the broadcast and he said, "Yes, nothing disappeared but the OPA." Well, the QPA had gone out of existence that weekend and it was a very funny remark then, but it doesn't make much sense today. I bring it up only as an example of the way Fred could take two totally unrelated subjects and combine them into one fast quip.

Even his prose style defied imitation. He had a horror of cliche and every sentence that came from his lips had a newly minted freshness that was unique, even among very literate men. To him, even "hello" or any other ordinary salutation, was a cliche and he avoided any form of routine greeting. He'd greet you, on say, a hot day with: "It's so hot out I could take my skin off and sit around in my bones."

In his early days he billed himself as the world's worst juggler and he just about was. He'd keep dropping the Indian clubs and to cover his confusion he'd make wise cracks that would convulse the audience. Actually, Fred was the last of three great American humorists who started the same way. The other two were W. C. Fields, who was a little better juggler than Fred, but still no world beater, and Will Rogers, whose rope act was pretty fair, but not much better than that. All used wise cracks to cover their inadequacies with the props and grew into national institutions.

Fred's death came as a particularly terrible shock to me because he took such very good care of his health. He didn't drink or smoke and his diet was of such austerity that a rabbit would find it dull. In fact I always thought he'd live to be 103. His health faddism was a rich source of amusement to his friends. He had high blood pressure and he had consulted so many doctors and read so many books on the subject he knew more about it than they did.

Any sort of new medical fad would receive his most earnest attention. Once in Florida he stumbled on a cult that believed in fasting as a cure-all for everything. People subsisted on nothing but distilled water for weeks. Fred was fascinated by the project and its effect on the patients.

He was a very simple man. For decades, although he was a millionaire, he lived in a little apartment on West 58th Street. He used to eat lunch every day at the corner drugstore. He never owned a car and never learned to drive. It wasn't parsimony; it was simply that luxury didn't mean anything to him. He never got away from the common people and he had a wide acquaintanceship in his little neighborhood with delicatessen store proprietors, shopkeepers and local cops.

His kindliness was fabulous. Once a delicatessen store proprietor, a friend of his, lost his liquor license because gamblers had been hanging out there. Fred bought the place, got a liquor license in his own name and turned it over to his friend to run. At the time of his death he was working on his autobiography and he kept looking up old friends of his vaudeville days for material. Every time he found one of these old chums, most of them down on their luck, it cost him the price of a new suit. He loathed sham of any sort and he considered the broadcasting in-

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during our bereavement, the death of Richard W. Keller. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who donated cars, those who sent floral offerings, and the minister, Rev. Adam Grimm for his comforting words.

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved mother, Leonora Larsen, who passed away 4 years ago March 23, 1952.
The years go by and life moves on.
The world is changing ever,
But in your family's hearts, dear mother
Your memory changes never.
We cherish all the precious thoughts,
Of many a happy day,
For in our hearts, you're still our mother,
And never fades away.
Sadly missed by her children

In memory of our dear son and brother Ernest Leo Moore, killed in Korea March 23, 1953.
Loving memories never die,
As years roll on and days go by;
In our hearts a memory is kept
Of the one we loved and will never forget.
Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. J. J Moore and Family

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during our bereavement, the death of Richard W. Keller. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who donated cars, those who sent floral offerings, and the minister, Rev. Adam Grimm for his comforting words.

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved mother, Leonora Larsen, who passed away 4 years ago March 23, 1952.
The years go by and life moves on.
The world is changing ever.
But in your family's hearts, dear mother
Your memory changes never.
We cherish all the precious thoughts.
Of many a happy day.
For in our hearts, you're still our mother,
And never fades away.
Sadly missed by her children

In memory of our dear son and brother Ernest Lee Moore, killed in Korea March 23, 1953.
Loving memories never die,
As years roll on and days go by;
In our hearts a memory is kept
Of the one we loved and will never forget.
Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Moore and Family

dustry, which made him famous, full of it. He always regarded network executives as a bunch of over-grown office boys and he was incessantly battling them. "If the United States can get along with one vice president, I don't know why NBC needs 26," he said once. Among his other pet dislikes were Hollywood and southern California. "It's a nice climate," he remarked of California, "if you're an orange."

He also took a dim view of agents and he once remarked of his agent, "He gets 10 per cent of everything I get except my blinding headaches." Years ago Fred was a pretty good drinker, averaging a bottle a day. The day prohibition was repealed he stopped drinking entirely, claiming that he'd drunk so much poison that the good stuff would probably kill him.

The end was sudden. As John Huston remarked after the death of his father, Walter Huston: "He was too good a man to be sick. When the time came, he just died."

Quarry Rock Fall Near Oakland Fatal To Three Workers

Funeral Arrangements Completed

Funeral arrangements have been completed for three Garrett County men who were killed instantly while at work yesterday when they were crushed by a rock slide in the Garrett County-owned quarry at Sang Run about 12 miles northwest of Oakland.

The victims were Randall D. Wilburn, 43, foreman; Lloyd N. Guard, 66, of Sang Run, and Ford Quintin Friend, 38, of near Friendsville.

Cpl. Samuel Conrad and Tfc. Robert Henline of the Maryland State Police investigated with Sheriff Paul Fisher and his deputies.

Authorities gave this account of the tragedy:

Wilbun, Guard, and Friend were working on a rock ledge about 30 feet from the bottom of the quarry, which is property of the County Commissioners, and known as Bishoff's Stone Quarry.

Ledge Gives Way

About 8 a. m. the ledge gave way in one 20-ton piece, hurling the three victims into the pit. They were pinned between the huge rock and other rocks weighing about half a ton apiece that followed the big rock down into the pit.

All three men were killed instantly. Several other county employes working at the quarry extricated the bodies.

Dr. James Feaster of Oakland pronounced the men dead. Dr. Feaster was acting in the absence of Dr. I. E. Baumgartner, deputy county medical examiner, who was out of town.

Aubrey C. Benneman, a Garrett County Commissioner, went to the scene. He reported that Wilburn had been first employed by the county in July and had been promoted to foreman the first of January.

Flood Control Pumping Units Will Be Built

Mill Race, Ridgeley Stations Planned

The Corps of Engineers plans to advertise next month for the construction of two pumping stations needed for the $18,000,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program.

The Class B contract will call for the construction of the Mill Race and the Ridgeley pumping stations. It has been listed as a Class B project, which means cost is estimated to range from $100,000 to $500,000.

The construction of the third unit, the Viaduct Pumping Station, is included in the contract for Wills Creek Channel sections II and III, awarded last fall to the E. J. Albrecht Company, Chicago.

The Mill Race station will be located near the old Community Ball Park and the Ridgeley station will be located at the rear of Poling's store there.

Goes Over Walls

The three pumping stations are being built to pump surface water picked up by pressure conduits and sewers over the top of the flood walls and levees in times of high water.

In normal times, according to Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, surface water will flow from conduits directly into the creek or river.

When the water gets high enough to close flap gates and impede the normal flow, sluice gates built into the sewers and conduits will be closed. This will divert the storm water to pumping stations, where it will be pumped through openings near the top of the walls or leaves.

The pumping units will not be needed until walls are completed.

Will Open Bids

Bids on another flood control project, Wills Creek Channel Section IV, will be opened by the Corps of Engineers April 12.

The big project will complete the channel improvement work in Wills Creek and replace City of Cumberland and Western Maryland Railway bridges at Baltimore Street.

Work on the Potomac River Section 1 contract has been pushed past the halfway mark by the Albrecht firm.

Final contracts for the project will include Potomac River Section 2 and certain work in connection with the Western Maryland Railway property.

Patching Up The Holes

State Busy Paying Tax Refunds

ANNAPOLIS, March 22 (AP) — Maryland income tax officials are almost as busy paying out money as they are taking it in as the April 15 deadline for filing returns approaches.

Tax officials said today that of returns received so far, 75,000—or about one third—will require refunds because of the withholding tax system the State put into effect last July 1.

If the rate continues it could exceed 150,000 rebates tax experts originally counted on having to pay out under the new system.

However, Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the income tax division, expects it to dwindle as the deadline approaches.

"The fellow due a refund normally files earlier than one who will have to make a payment with his tax," he said.

Most of the rebates to date are generally small in amount although large in number, Marsh says. The bulk of them are going to persons who previously were not required to file returns—such as seasonal workers and college students employed only part time. Their annual income previously did not total enough to file a return after deductions. But now it is withheld as they earn it and they must file to recover it.

Some other rebates are for persons who have not claimed on withholding forms the full number of dependents they list on returns for tax purposes.

To handle the extra clerical work involved with withholding, the Income Tax Division put on 33 extra employes this year and the 1956 Legislature authorized 35 more in a supplemental appropriation in July.

But despite all the checks going back to taxpayers, the State still expects to finish ahead financially. It has been estimated that Maryland will take in as much as 3 million dollars more a year from new taxpayers than it did previously.

Tar And Chips Go On Bumpy Street Today

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz announced yesterday that crews will begin surfacing Freedrick Street, from Linden Street to Pearre Avenue, today unless the weather changes.

He said Street Department crews have filled the holes in the street and will begin apply tar and chips today.

He said he hopes the area can be opened by the weekend.

Meanwhile, he announced yesterday that plans were worked out, in cooperation with the Police Department, for changing "No Parking" signs from Decatur Street to Keiter's Market, from the right to the left side of the street, during the repair project.

The temporary change, he said, was put in effect since the part being surfaced is largely on the right side of the street.

Man Drops Plan To Build Shop In Residential Zone

William H. Hiner Jr., rear of 20 Potomac Street, asked to drop his application to build a 26 by 30 foot garage, with overhead apartment, on Lot 4 of Maple Street, a Residential B district.

He took the action after a delegation of 11 residents of that area appeared to protest, saying noise and welding flashes from the shop would depreciate the value of their properties.

Among the protestants was M. G. Norris, 305 South Street, representing the congregation of nearby Bethel Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Hiner said he bought the lot for a home and had planned to build the shop there to save money, adding that since the "people felt that way" he would drop his plans. He added he plans to build a home there later.

That he will be welcomed as a neighbor was clear from the friendly reception which followed the decision.

Bigger Garages Needed, Zoning Board Decides

Urges Modernization Of Building Code

Cars are getting bigger and bigger all the time, and the Board of Zoning Appeals agrees it's about time the Building Code recognizes the fact.

The Board, at its meeting last night in City Hall, scheduled a discussion on present restrictions for its next meeting after agreeing the City Building Engineer should have discretionary power to grant permits which exceed present requirements by a percentage, tentatively set at 10 per cent.

James C. Gardner, chairman, said a formal recommendation will be made to the Planning and Zoning Commission after the meeting.

Nuzum Outlines Problem

C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, presented the problem to the Board, pointing out that under the code, a building placed on the rear of a lot cannot take up more than half of the rear yard.

A rear yard, he said, is defined as 20 feet from the alley.

For example, he said, a 50 foot lot would have 1,000 square feet of rear yard, which means the garage cannot be more than 500 square feet.

He cited the example of a resident who asked to place a two-car, 26 by 24 foot garage on a 60 by 125 foot lot. Using the code formula, the garage—which Nuzum said is none too large for today's cars—was 24 feet over the limit, and had to be referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Costs More Money

The result is that the city is placed to additional expense for an appeal to the Board, which does have discretionary powers.

Earle E. Manges, attorney for the board, agreed the law as now written does not allow the Building Engineer any discretion.

Nuzum said he turned the application down and that the code should be more realistic.

Manges said the liberalization will require a city ordinance, and board members planned to set plans for the change into motion at their next meeting.

Goes Over Walls

The three pumping stations are being built to pump surface water picked up by pressure conduits and sewers over the top of the flood walls and levees in times of high water.

In normal times, according to Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, surface water will flow from conduits directly into the creek or river.

When the water gets high enough to close flap gates and impede the normal flow, sluice gates built into the sewers and conduits will be closed. This will divert the storm water to pumping stations, where it will be pumped through openings near the top of the walls or leaves.

The pumping units will not be needed until walls are completed.

Will Open Bids

Bids on another flood control project, Wills Creek Channel Section IV, will be opened by the Corps of Engineers April 12.

The big project will complete the channel improvement work in Wills Creek and replace City of Cumberland and Western Maryland Railway bridges at Baltimore Street.

Work on the Potomac River Section 1 contract has been pushed past the halfway mark by the Albrecht firm.

Final contracts for the project will include Potomac River Section 2 and certain work in connection with the Western Maryland Railway property.

Patching Up The Holes

State Busy Paying Tax Refunds

ANNAPOLIS, March 22 (AP) — Maryland income tax officials are almost as busy paying out money as they are taking it in as the April 15 deadline for filing returns approaches.

Tax officials said today that of returns received so far, 75,000—or about one third—will require refunds because of the withholding tax system the State put into effect last July 1.

If the rate continues it could exceed 150,000 rebates tax experts originally counted on having to pay out under the new system.

However, Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the income tax division, expects it to dwindle as the deadline approaches.

"The fellow due a refund normally files earlier than one who will have to make a payment with his tax," he said.

Most of the rebates to date are generally small in amount although large in number, Marsh says. The bulk of them are going to persons who previously were not required to file returns—such as seasonal workers and college students employed only part time. Their annual income previously did not total enough to file a return after deductions. But now it is withheld as they earn it and they must file to recover it.

Some other rebates are for persons who have not claimed on withholding forms the full number of dependents they list on returns for tax purposes.

To handle the extra clerical work involved with withholding, the Income Tax Division put on 33 extra employes this year and the 1956 Legislature authorized 35 more in a supplemental appropriation in July.

But despite all the checks going back to taxpayers, the State still expects to finish ahead financially. It has been estimated that Maryland will take in as much as 3 million dollars more a year from new taxpayers than it did previously.

Tar And Chips Go On Bumpy Street Today

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz announced yesterday that crews will begin surfacing Freedrick Street, from Linden Street to Pearre Avenue, today unless the weather changes.

He said Street Department crews have filled the holes in the street and will begin apply tar and chips today.

He said he hopes the area can be opened by the weekend.

Meanwhile, he announced yesterday that plans were worked out, in cooperation with the Police Department, for changing "No Parking" signs from Decatur Street to Keiter's Market, from the right to the left side of the street, during the repair project.

The temporary change, he said, was put in effect since the part being surfaced is largely on the right side of the street.

Man Drops Plan To Build Shop In Residential Zone

A local man voluntarily withdrew his application to locate a blacksmith and welding shop on Maple Street after residents of the area protested.

William H. Hiner Jr., rear of 20 Potomac Street, asked to drop his application to build a 26 by 30 foot garage, with overhead apartment, on Lot 4 of Maple Street, a Residential B district.

He took the action after a delegation of 11 residents of that area appeared to protest, saying noise and welding flashes from the shop would depreciate the value of their properties.

Among the protestants was M. G. Norris, 305 South Street, representing the congregation of nearby Bethel Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Hiner said he bought the lot for a home and had planned to build the shop there to save money, adding that since the "people felt that way" he would drop his plans. He added he plans to build a home there later.

That he will be welcomed as a neighbor was clear from the friendly reception which followed the decision.

Bigger Garages Needed, Zoning Board Decides

Urges Modernization Of Building Code

Cars are getting bigger and bigger all the time, and the Board of Zoning Appeals agrees it's about time the Building Code recognizes the fact.

The Board, at its meeting last night in City Hall, scheduled a discussion on present restrictions for its next meeting after agreeing the City Building Engineer should have discretionary power to grant permits which exceed present requirements by a percentage, tentatively set at 10 per cent.

James C. Gardner, chairman, said a formal recommendation will be made to the Planning and Zoning Commission after the meeting.

Nuzum Outlines Problem

C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, presented the problem to the Board, pointing out that under the code, a building placed on the rear of a lot cannot take up more than half of the rear yard.

A rear yard, he said, is defined as 20 feet from the alley.

For example, he said, a 30 foot lot would have 1,000 square feet of rear yard, which means the garage cannot be more than 500 square feet.

He cited the example of a resident who asked to place a two-car, 26 by 24 foot garage on a 60 by 125 foot lot. Using the code formula, the garage—which Nuzum said is none too large for today's cars—was 24 feet over the limit, and had to be referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Costs More Money

The result is that the city is placed to additional expense for an appeal to the Board, which does have discretionary powers.

Earle E. Manges, attorney for the board, agreed the law as now written does not allow the Building Engineer any discretion.

Nuzum said he turned the application down and that the code should be more realistic.

Manges said the liberalization will require a city ordinance, and board members planned to set plans for the change into motion at their next meeting.

Freeland Protests Higher Rates

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 22 (AP)—Mayor John C. Freeland of Keyser said here today that higher gas rates which became effective in his community last Dec. 6 proved to be too much of a financial burden for residents to bear.

He appeared before the Public Service Commission as hearing was resumed of a Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co. petition for approval of higher rates it charges 16,600 West Virginia customers.
